South Korean Troops Reach Manchurian Yalu River Border

Red Resistance In North Korea Grows Stronger

Still Probing Reports Red Chinese Troops Are Aiding Defense

By IRVING R. LEVINE
(I. N. S. War Correspondent)

SEOUL, Oct. 27—(Friday)—South Korean troops reached the Manchurian Yalu river border Thursday evening in a thrust up the east flank of an Allied drive that met suddenly stiffened Red resistance elsewhere in northwest Korea.

American field advisers reported an ROK (Republic of Korea) Sixth Division unit arrived on the Yalu's south bank above Chosan at 5:50 p.m. Thursday (3:50 a.m. EST).

Report Chines Reds

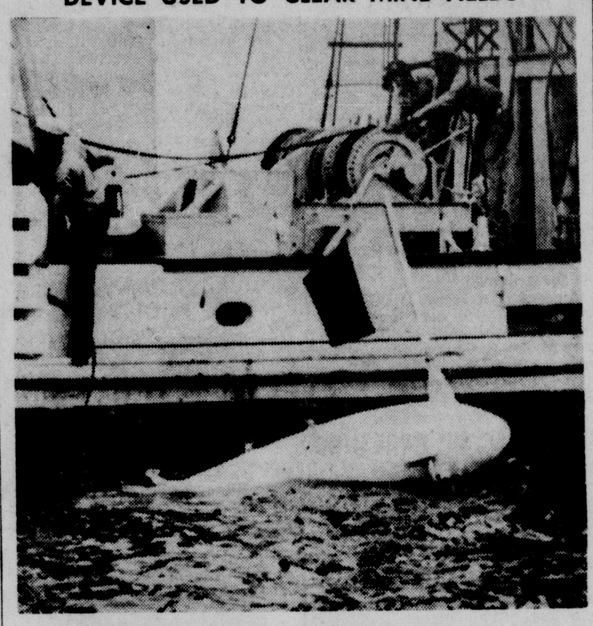

An earlier radio message from the ROK Sixth and another regiment of that division was surrounded three miles east of Onjong, 50 miles below Chosan, by what the South Korean report described as an estimated 5,000 Chinese Communist soldiers.

U. S. Eighth Army officials and staff members of America's Korean Military Advisory Group adopted a skeptical attitude regarding south Korean reports that Chinese Red troops were fighting in Korea against United Nations forces.

On the peninsula's opposite side, meanwhile, 50,000 U. S. Marine, Army and ROK Marine troops fanned out from the eastern port of Wonsan where they made an amphibious landing Thursday to bol-

WONSAN, NORTH KOREA—The crew of a minesweeper prepare to haul aboard the flagged paravane, fish-shaped float which supports the end of cable as it knifes along beneath the surface, cutting the mine moorings. This special United States Navy device on United States and South Korean minesweepers cleared the most intensive Sea minefields in military history. These minefields delayed for six days the landing of the first Marine elements of the 10th Corps here.

Third Report On Chest Boosts Total To $81,584

Workers Add $21,557 To Fund In Reports Presented At Noon

Community Chest division chairmen reported $21,557 additional to the Chest campaign at the Third report meeting at The Castleton hotel today at noon, to raise the total reported to $81,584.

This represents 64 per cent of the $127,600 goal.

The report was somewhat below what was expected at the meeting. Campaign leaders were hoping for a 75 percent report at the meeting, which would have been $95,000.

Division Reaches Goal

One division—the educational division—reached its goal at the meeting. Dr. Frank L. Burton reported a total of $2,999 on a goal of $3,000 and tossed in the extra dollar in order to reach the top.

Another good report was received by the Public Service division, which is headed by L. J. Lewis. A total of $10,579 on a quota of $12,500 has been reported in this division.

Campaign chairman Homer D. Choate was in charge of the meeting. Rabbi Ivan J. Gruen opened the meeting with the prayer. Mr. Choate called upon A. H. Gonick,

New Amphibious Landing By U.N. Troops In Korea

By LEE FERREO
(I. N. S. War Correspondent)

WONSAN, Korea, Oct. 26.—Fifty thousand United Nations troops, led by U. S. Marines, were put ashore today at Wonsan in a hazardous amphibious operation and fanned out from the east Korean port to hunt down diehard bands of Communists.

The armada which transported the troops from the west coast to the east coast of Korea had to thread its way through one of the heaviest mine concentrations in history on the sea approaches to Wonsan.

Channel Is Cleared

A channel for the huge amphibious force was cleared by minesweepers, five of which were lost during the operation. The Communists had laid down a field of 2,000 mines before fleeing from the port which fell to South Korean troops some days ago.

Marines of the First Division, the Army's Seventh Army's Division and two Republic of Korea battalions poured ashore at Wonsan in an operation which was delayed for six days because of the mines.

Maj. Gen. E. M. Almond, Tenth Corps commander, deployed his troops around Wonsan and sent one column racing to Tongyang 28 miles west of the port.

Almond who commanded the same troops in the Inchon landings September 15, said:

Immediate Objectives

"We have two immediate objectives. The first is to advance as swiftly as possible to an area northeast of Pyongyang to aid the Eighth Army if necessary; and secondly, to move into our designated area to the west and north to help ful-

Congress May Be Called Back Soon After Election

(BULLETIN)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26 — (INS) — President Truman said today that he probably will call Congress back into session immediately after the November elections to work on urgent legislation to cope with the world threat of Communism.

The Chief Executive told a news conference that he does not expect war in Europe this winter but that Congress must enact legislation to raise an enormous amount of new revenue to pay for the nation's rearming.

(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—High official circles in Washington talked privately today of a possible dramatic move by President Truman to call Congress back into session almost immediately after the November election.

The reports of a special session called were without official confirmation, but it was known that the president had suddenly cancelled a vacation trip to Florida which had been planned between November 10 and the scheduled reconvening of Congress November 27.

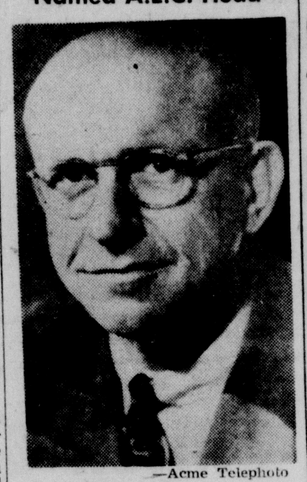

Not Going to Florida

Mr. Truman, on his return from the United Nations, told a small group of reporters he knows well that he would not go to Florida as planned.

This came as a distinct surprise

Order Issued To Ban Some Construction

By PHILLIPS J. PECK
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—The government today banned construction of race tracks, bowling alley and theaters to conserve building materials for the defense effort.

The National Production Authority, issued an order, effective at midnight tonight, halting construction of amusement or entertainment facilities.

The NPA also acted to correct a serious freight car shortage. It directed steel producers to allocate 310,000 tons of steel monthly during the first quarter of 1951 to build 10,000 cars a month.

To Cutback Production

After issuance of the construction and freight car directives, NPA Administrator William H. Harrison met with representatives of the home appliance, radio and television industries to lay the groundwork for a cutback in the production of these items.

The ban on recreational construction covers 44 specific types of buildings, including amusement parks, bandstands, race tracks, stadiums, theaters of all kinds, and assembly halls used primarily for recreation or amusement purposes.

The construction ban applies to new buildings and does not affect those already started.

U.S. Presses Fight To Keep Secretary Lie In U.N. Post

By PIERRE J. HUSS
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., Oct. 26.—The United States today pressed her fight with Russia on keeping UN Secretary General Trygve Lie in his post and by asking the assembly to grant a five-year extension of his term.

Warren Austin, chief American delegate and president of the security council, sent a letter to assembly president Nasrollah Entezam notifying him of the 11-nation body's inability to agree on the selection of a secretary general for 1951.

To Call Meeting

Entezam agreed to call an assembly meeting either tomorrow or Monday.

Soviet delegate Jacob Malik promptly countered the Austin move with another demand that the security council meet again to vote on a new unidentified candidate he has in mind. Last night

Fresh Reports Eisenhower To Be Commander

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—(INS)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's announcement that he will visit Washington during this weekend's European defense meeting raised fresh reports today he will command the Atlantic Pact armed force.

Eisenhower's statement coincided with this afternoon's military committee discussion of the unified defense force and the power to be conferred on its supreme commander. The overall chief will be an American.

Military spokesmen at the Pentagon believed that "Ike"—who is on full military pay and subject to call when needed—probably will confer with Defense Secretary Marshall, his World War II chief, if the European command is to be discussed.

Reds Step Up Their Pressure Against French

SAIGON, Indo-China, Oct. 26.—(INS)—Communist-led Viet Minh rebels stepped up their pressure today against French and Viet Namese defense forces in the region of Loakay in northern Indo-China.

The action in the direction of Loakay, 160 miles northwest of Hanoi, was especially heavy around Banthiet.

Viet Minh forces were said to be building rafts along the left bank of the Red river near Pholu, 18 miles southeast of Loakay, apparently in preparation for a crossing.

A French military spokesman said that a strong force of guerrillas derailed and then attacked a train at Mychanh, in the center of Viet Nam.

Gen. Alphonse-Pierre Juin declared, meanwhile, that French forces "are going to take the initiative."

Says Holdup Story Is Hoax

(BULLETIN)

SALIDA, Colo., Oct. 26.—(INS)—A 25-year-old mail truck driver admitted to postal inspectors today that a story he told of an attempted hold-up on lonely Monarch Pass road was entirely a hoax.

Postal Inspectors T. B. Stavely and Joseph Murphy obtained the admission from Gene Coatney, who originally told a wild west tale of a stickup attempt which he said was made last night.

The driver also admitted that his story that the truck was carrying $30,000 also was "imagination".

Originally, the driver told of a black Cadillac, which he said emerged from the shadows of the mountain road, while the occupants shot at him. He declared he drove the "bandits" off with a service revolver.

R. B. Dunbar, chief inspector for the post office in Denver, said the reason for Coatney's hoax had not yet been learned. He added no money was missing.

PA NEWC OBSERVES

In addition to the frost of the morning, motorists who were out early discovered that a general fog was prevalent in many sections of the city and county.

Outlying districts of Lawrence county felt the heaviest frost of the season this morning, with temperatures in some localities registering 30 degrees. Trees and bushes looked as though they were covered with snow in some places.

Pa Newc is in receipt of a note that says that Pulaski is also having a halloween celebration this year, the second annual. It will be held on Friday evening, with a parade and other features.

West Side residents are still enjoying their roses. The lawns of John Brenneman, 1315 West Washington street, and C. P. Herman, 1317 West Washington street, are displaying the lovely blooms. They are expected to last till late in November.

Pa Newc is informed that a dead dog, killed by an automobile last Saturday, has been lying at the corner of Meyer avenue and the Wilmington road since that time. Certainly some authority should remove the animal before it becomes an offense to the community.

Where the robins go, and when, seems to be a debatable subject. While most robins undoubtedly go south for the winter, one of Pa Newc's boys recalls seeing a great flock of them in a wooded section southeast of West Pittsburg about 15 years ago, late in January, when the weather was extremely cold and has often seen them around at Thanksgiving time. This is in answer to those who have inquired recently.

The baseball season is all wrapped up, the players are taking their ease, some are hunting for game and some are in clover up to their knees. And the football season is rapidly approaching the well known close, oh hi de hi and ho de ho, it's odd where the time all goes. And soon we'll see on the hardwood floor, the basketball men start to play, and that my friend will be winter time, it's 52 today.

North Koreans May Face Trial For Aiding Reds

By JOHN RICH
(I. N. S. War Correspondent)

PYONGYANG, Oct. 26.—Sixty-five-year-old Chung Lim, Pyongyang's new mayor, wants all North Koreans who collaborated with the Communist regime prosecuted.

Chung said no more than 10 to 20 per cent of the population cooperated with the Reds, but he added:

"We plan to arrest all collaborationists as soon as possible. They will be tried in courts which will be set up."

Chung also announced that he plans to reverse the North Korean land reform program and restore property to those who owned it under the Japanese occupation.

To Return Land

Chung and two assistants agreed that land taken and distributed by the Reds must be returned to its previous owners even if it is now being tilled and occupied by others.

They also agreed that nationalized industry would be returned to private ownership.

Mayor Chung — whose actual title is chairman of the provisional city government committee—also said he is anxious to join formally with President Syngman Rhee's government but thought it was up to the South Koreans to make the first move.

Asked about the United Nations, the former schoolteacher replied:

"During the past five years we have not had much chance to learn about international affairs.

U.S. PRESSES FIGHT TO KEEP SECRETARY LIE IN U.N. POST

a closed session of the security council rejected Carlos P. Romulo of the Philippines and Charles Malik of Lebanon after their names were formally offered by the Russian.

In favor were Russia, India China and Egypt. The other seven council members abstained, thus saving the United States the necessity of carrying out its announced intention of vetoing any candidate other than Lie. The U. S. said its decision was based on grounds of securtiy. Austin said Russia wanted Lie dismissed because he fought against the communist aggression in Korea and that yielding to the Soviet demand would set the precedent that any top UN official opposing Russian policies could expect severe punishment.

Two Withdraw

The two candidates Malik intended to propose notified him they they were withdrawing from the list. They were Sir Benegal Rau of India and Padilla Nervo of Mexico.

In the closed security council session, Soviet delegate Malik for the first time broadened his charges against Lie. He said that Lie's attitude on Korea was only one link in a chain of behavior over the past two years objectionable to Russia because these actions of the secretary general represented UN charter violations.

Malik claimed that last May, during his visit to Premier Stalin and deputy Premier Molotov, Lie refused to accept certain suggestions offered him by the two top men in the Kremlin on the 20-year peace program the UN official outlined.

Additional complaints listed against Lie by Malik were that he has upheld the North Atlantic pact, an alliance condemned by the Russians as a violation of the UN charter. Malik claimed also that in his willingness to accept the U. S. offer of a five-year extension of his term, Lie is trampling on charter provisions.

fill General Douglas MacArthur's orders of 'destroying the enemy in the field.'"

ROK marines who took part in the landing were given the immediate mission of wiping out enemy pockets of resistance on several small islands near Wonsan.

Rear Adm. James H. Doyle, commanding the sea force that put the troops on the beach, commented:

"We could have landed farther north but we can get the same result by moving troops here. If you can avoid an assault attack it's fine and dandy."

The battleship Missouri and other warships of Vice. Adm. Arthur D. Strubel's Task Force 77 provided cover for the landing.

Maj. Gen. Oliver P. Smith, First Marine Division commander, pointed out that the troops could have been moved to the Wonsan area by trucks but added that the waterborne operation sends them into battle with vehicles and equipment in to shape.

Before the landing, General Smith said with a smile:

"The first marine air wing is sitting on the beach awaiting us.

"This is most unusual in marine annals—the ground troops usually beat their air support in to land."

Reformation Sunday

The custom of celebrating birthdays is one which most people enjoy.

It is therefore not strange that all Protestants should unite to celebrate the birthday of the founding of Protestantism. This birth date is October 31, 1517.

Reformation Sunday, or the birthday of Protestantism, occurs on the last Sunday in the month of October.

The Protestant people of New Castle, as well as the Protestant people throughout America, will observe this Sunday by holding a union service.

As this was a great day in the lives of those who started this movement, so today it is a great day in the life of the Protestant church.

He said that the French will have to hit back at the guerrillas in a war of movement and described this type of warfare as the only way to combat the rebels. Juin added:

"With United States materiel, especially airplanes, French Union forces would be able to assume the double task of defense of the frontiers and pacification of the country."

CONGRESS MAY BE CALLED BACK SOON AFTER ELECTION

because the only rest the president has had in six months has been the brief yacht outing he took on Chesapeake Bay three weeks ago.

Asked the reason for his decision, Mr. Truman said that he was going to be too busy after the election writing messages to Congress and taking care of other urgent matters to be able to leave Washington.

Officially, White House attaches maintained a tight-lipped silence on the reports that the president would summon congressmen back to Washington almost immediately after the election.

The housing expediter is said to want power to recontrol areas which have become rent-free through failure of local governing bodies to act.

Presidential advisors are said to believe that the existing legislation should be scrapped entirely and a new law written, rather than to try to patch up the existing legislation by amendments.

STROHECKER-MYERS BEAUTIFUL WEDDING

Ivory satin complemented the brunette loveliness of Miss Dorothy Mae Strohecker, daughter of Mrs. Mae Strohecker, R. D. 7, Mahoningtown, and the late Oliver Strohecker, when she was married to Harry Myers, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Myers, R. D. 5, New Castle, on Friday evening, October 20 at 7:30 o'clock.

The charming ceremony was performed in the Bethel United Presbyterian church by Rev. Willard George, pastor of the church. The double ring service took place before an altar arranged with ferns, palms, and branched candelabra, with a center bouquet of white gladioli and mums enhancing the festive setting.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Ralph Strohecker. Her costume was styled with a fitted bodice with tiny covered buttons from the neckline to the waist, a dainty pointed collar and sleeves tapering at the wrist, and a graceful train. Her fingertip veil of illusion was fastened to a crown of tiny seed pearls. The bridal bouquet was composed of white roses edged with stephanotis and streamers of ivy.

Mrs. John Gregory, Jr., matron of honor, was becomingly dressed in aqua taffeta, styled with a fitted bodice and scalloped bertha collar with matching elbow length mitts. She carried a hand bouquet of pink roses and white mums and wore white mums in her hair. The bride's gown and matron of honor's gown were fashioned by the bride.

Best man for the occasion was Gaylord Myers, brother of the groom. Ushers were Russell Strohecker, brother of the bride, and Gerald Myers, brother of the groom.

Mrs. Ed. F. Brown played a half-hour prelude of nuptial music preceding the ceremony and accompanied Glenn Strohecker, brother of the bride, who sang "Because", "The Lord's Prayer," and "I Love You Truly".

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held in the church parlor for 150 guests.

Escorted to the altar by her father, the bride appeared in a gown of white slipper satin and Chantilly lace. The snug bodice was fashioned with long pointed sleeves, while lace inserts trimmed the full skirt which ended in a cathedral train. Her fingertip veil was caught to a crown of seed pearls. She wore a rhinestone necklace and earrings, gifts of the groom, and carried a bouquet of calla lilies and white roses with streamers.

Miss Jennia Walczak served her cousin as maid of honor, wearing a white nylon gown styled with a marquisette yoke. Her bouquet consisted of white roses and baby mums.

Bridesmaids included the bride's sister, Mrs. Clara Schultz, who was attired in gold satin with a marquisette yoke giving an off-shoulder effect, and the bride's cousin, Miss Clara Davis, who wore an aqua satin gown. Each carried a bouquet consisting of talismen roses, bronze and white mums and streamers. Matching mitts and flower headdresses were pretty accents of the costumes.

Mike Kuzminski of Irwin served his brother as best man, while Alfred Schultz, brother-in-law of the bride, and Steve Saginaw of Sharon served as ushers.

Approximately 200 guests were entertained at a reception at the Slovak hall, with dancing enjoyed to a popular orchestra.

GO TO THE BALLOT BOX

The ballot box stands between a free people and enslavement. The right to vote is the strongest defense we have against oppression.

Few people will deny this. Yet huge numbers of Americans, who regard themselves as good and patriotic citizens, fail to take advantage of their greatest privilege.

In local elections, it is common for less than half of the eligible voters to go to the polling booths. Even in national elections, in which men are running for the highest offices, and in which issues and principles of the utmost moment are at stake, millions of us don't vote.

The result, of course, is government by minority—there is no way to measure the views and opinions of the man who fails to exercise the right of franchise. Government of the people is possible only when the people make their stand known—and that can be done only at the ballot box.

In a short time there will be another election of great importance. The control of Congress will be decided. The presidential campaign of 1952 will be strongly influenced by what happens this November. Policies which will determine the future of the nation, for good or ill, will be established. The majority will rule, as usual. But the true voice of the majority can never be known if again, as in the past, millions of people who possess the right to vote shirk their duty and responsibility.

Study the candidates and the issues. Make up your mind as to which of them, in your opinion, can do the most to keep this country strong, solvent and free. And then vote.

LOBBYISTS ALL?

Although the Special House Committee on Lobbying Activities does not actually say that lobbying is a crime, its continuing studies and public pronouncements seem to give the impression that there is something insidious about the actions of those who try to influence legislation in Washington.

Chairman Buchanan, of Pennsylvania, for example, lists the business as "a billion dollar industry." He does not explain how he reached this conclusion, but it is not without significance that he tied it up with his announcement that 152 corporations voluntarily reported they had spent more than $32,000,000 in two years and a half in seeking to protect themselves against legislation prejudicial to their interests.

This attempt to make it appear that business and industry are the prime offenders in lobbying will fool only the unwary. The plain fact is that practically everyone is a lobbyist and it could be, indeed, that the administration is the greatest of them all.

Many of the pamphlets, bulletins and reports that come out of Washington in a steady stream are designed in one case to keep the Democratic party in power and in others to perpetuate the authority of various government bureaus. As often as not it is lobbying of a sort when the president makes a political speech or when he goes across the nation to help elect some favorite candidate for office.

It is obviously lobbying when unions spend millions to get the Taft-Hartley Law repealed and when farm and veterans organization, groups, etc., descend on the capital in an attempt to persuade or frighten legislators into following a certain line of action.

If all this lobbying were in the open it might be, as the Pennsylvania "liberal" who heads this committee says, the mark of a billion dollar industry.

FIGHT FIRE EVERY WEEK

A short time ago, the 1950 observance of Fire Prevention Week took place. It is officially over. But, if Americans are at all interested in the health and welfare of themselves and their families, they will make every week a fire prevntion week.

Safety from fire—whether in the home, on a farm, or in an industrial plant—can only be achieved by continuous, day-in-and-day-out work. That doesn't mean it's a hard job. It isn't. For the most part, it's easy. But it is a job which can never be neglacted if we wish to avoid possible disaster.

The home which is safe today can be extremely dangerous tomorrow. An electric wire becomes frayed—a stove or a heating plant goes out of adjustment—someone is careless with cigarettes—flammable materials are carelessly stored in closets and attics—explosive liquids and oil-soaked rags are placed where the touch of a spark would set them ablaze. It is "little things" such as these that are responsible for the majority of fires. And it is these "little things" which we must look out for—not during one week, but every week of the year.

The nation's fire loss continues at disgracefully high levels. Far worse is the fact that, each year, fire claims something like 10,000 lives—many of them infants and children. Many thousands more are permanently maimed and disfigured. This is the price we pay for our carelessness and ignorance. This is the grave problem which the annual fire prevention weeks are designed to help us solve. We can do it, if we only have the will.

A Canadian city will experiment with heated sidewalks. The poor pedestrian—now he gets the hot foot!

Truman Plan Stumbling-Block

President Truman's frank admission that the modern world is still riddled with distrust and suspicion and his determination to build up Western strength against aggression underlined in a curious manner today his disarmament speech to the United Nations.

Keen international interest was aroused by his call for a "foolproof" program to banish the threat of war by destroying or controlling every type of weapon, including the atom bomb.

He quoted the prophet Isaiah, who according to the old testament said:

"They shall beat their swords into plowshares, and their spears into pruning-hooks; nation shall not lift up sword against nation, neither shall they learn war anymore."

Far-Reaching Reservations

But the far-reaching reservations Mr. Truman was compelled to impose in outlining his idealistic plan recalled the words of a legendary cynic who may or may not have lived around the time of Isaiah.

He simply pointed out that a pruning-hook can inflict a nastier wound than the clean incision of a spear, while plowshares hurled by catapult could be more damaging by far than rocks and stones.

In the long and sorry history of disarmament plans, the president's speech was important historically because of his insistence upon ironclad guarantees and the right of constant and unimpeded inspection.

Has Been Stumbling-Block

This has been the stumbling-block in all attempts to win Soviet Russia over to the Baruch plan or other Western proposals for atomic control.

The president insists that all barriers must be let down and complete freedom of information established across international borders.

This, of course, is the kernel of Soviet objections from the beginning—objections which blink the fact that any nation opposing inspection automatically arouses suspicion.

But it was suspicion that the President conceded to be a normal facet of human nature when he placed his stress upon guarantees and the need for policing "continuously and thoroughly."

To put it bluntly, disarmament programs, including highly ambitious ones, failed in the past because of what can be described only as a "double-cross."

Illuminating Case

Outwardly there was enthusiasm and apparent sincerity. But a rather illuminating case is that of Japan, which received huge League of Nations mandates in the Pacific after the first world war, sealed them off from the world, and then set about the laborious procedure of converting them into bases whose existence and power became known only with the explosions at Pearl Harbor.

Also there was the scuttling of a vast portion of the U. S. Fleet after World War I. This was supposed to have set an example. Instead, it set off a building race by other powers.

It is even more simple to remember June 25 of this year when the Communist invasion of South Korea found much of the American Navy and Air Force in "mothballs."

Almost Ironic

There was something almost ironic in the fact Mr. Truman revived the subject of disarmament at a moment when the Western World was being compelled to push forward with a vast undertaking in military defense.

He himself had to stress the determination of the United States and the United Nations to go to war to halt aggression wherever it might occur.

And while he was emphasizing the need to build up ever greater forces for preservation of peace, Premier Rene Pleven of France elaborated on his plan for an international army for Western Europe, with a certain amount of participation by Germany.

What Assurances

Even if Soviet Russia should show signs of welcoming the Truman plan, the question inevitably arises as to what assurances by the Soviet Union the Western powers would be prepared to accept.

The President has proposed "policing." But as in the case of Isaiah's spears and pruning-hooks, the cynic well may ask: "And who would police the policemen?"

It is obvious that he hopes for a more humanitarian reaction than this one. But he has always been a realist and possibly the maximum he looks for is an understanding by peoples at the mercy of Communist propaganda that the United States earnestly desires peace and is ready to work as well as fight for it.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

BRIGHT CHILD HAS HARD TIME

It would be easier for a camel to go through the eye of a needle than for a precocious baby to grow up as he should. It's not the youngster's fault, but his parents', that he is so handicapped. As soon as they discover that he is far brighter than the average child of his age, they want everybody else to know it, so they can exhibit his exploits among their friends and make them marvel at their prodigy. The parents unawares see the youngster as a token of themselves, whether they suppose he inherited his superior intelligence from them or gained his mental agility through their guidance. They bask in the glory he reflects.

Of course, many parents and grandparents, when any tot is over two or three, suppose this child is very smart, even though he may be only average or less in mentality. They just don't know how a child develops normally. Every utterance or act of his, suggesting he can say or do what only older children usually do, may cause these relatives to brag and show him off; cause them, moreover, to train him like a seal to do and say certain things normally done by older children.

Harm Young Child

It is easy to see how the human frallities of adults can thus harm the young child. It's in the preschool years when exhibition of his mental exploits can harm him most. After the child enters school, especially after the first few years of school, there are not so many ways for him to display superior talents or to have them developed, alas. Even the child and his parents don't find other persons very much impressed with his mental exploits when he is twelve or fourteen.

When the preschool youngster is shown off because of his mental mastery of things usually mastered only by a school-age child, his interest and attention have been turned away from normal fun with other children and he is rendered less attractive to his playmates. Before long he even may become repellent to most adults, poor kid.

Basic Conformity

What the precocious child needs most, especially in his years before school, is to learn such play skills as other children of his age will share and enjoy with him, while also learning some basic onformity and due regard for the rights and feelings of other persons—all of which he is least likely to learn.

A certain mother writes of her daughter, 22 months old, who, on being tested by a psychologist, was able "to do most of the tests for three and four and part of the test for five years." She wishes to know where this child might have further tests. "We have bought her a good many 'Little Golden Books' most of which she has memorized word for word. She spends hours reading them over to herself or her dolls. She speaks very plainly and has no trouble at all expressing herself. She plays well with other children but usually ends up reading even when she is outside with them. Do you think she needs any special help or attention?"

In answering this mother, I advised she go on reading to this child but encourage her in normal fun with other children; to stimulate her to play with blocks, to color, draw with crayons and the like; to display her normal play and creative talents but not her mental exploits. And why have her tested further now, unless you merely wish to find more ways to brag about her to your friends?

FAME AND FORTUNE

Said Fame to Fortune, "We're a pair
That have been honored everywhere
And still are honored, hailed and cheered;
Much loved, although we should be feared.
For notwithstanding all our charm
The ones we help we sometimes harm.

"We fancy we've discovered one
Whom we may safely smile upon
But when our favors are bestowed
And lightened is the toiler's load
When next we see the man again
We find him arrogant and vain.

"All think that easy it will be
To get along with you and me.
But still it cannot be denied
We sow the seeds of foolish pride
Grown rich and famous some forget
The friends that once they gladly met.

"There's many a man that you and I
Had better blindly journey by
For we've discovered much too late
He was not able to be great
For with the gifts we thought were good
He lost the touch of brotherhood."

Coming this week will be the first showings of the New. New Mercury . . . front-wise the lines are the same . . . but from the rear you will look twice to distinguish the new car . . . Higher back fenders with a longer trunk . . . inside the trim has been changed and then it's the first time Mercury has used the automatic gear-changer . . . Called the Mer-O-Matic. See Craft this week for a showing.

Also soon will be the Studebaker . . . again lines haven't been changed a great deal . . . but the overall appearance is much smoother looking . . . the pointed front end still will be there and the Stude will have no gear shifting. It was optional on 1950 models and from those who used the car . . . come great praise . . . Snyder Motors will be showing the 51 models very soon . . . watch for announcements.

A LINE TO SAY 'WE'RE NOT FORGETTING YOU'!

Washington Calling

(By MARQUIS CHILDS)

Will India Go Communist?

NEW DELHI, India, Oct. 26.—Can the United States and India work together to raise the level of life here on this subcontinent and thereby set an example for the rest of Asia?

The visitor who is honest with himself is likely to confess that he is further from any conviction with respect to this question after a brief stay than he was before he came. So many imponderables are involved, so much that is still in the realm or by guess and by God.

But one thing does seem certain to me and that is that both sides must try harder. The chief American complaint is on the score of the vagueness and the reluctance of the Nehru government to come to terms and indicate how and when and where American aid can be used to the most immediate advantage. And the blame for this is put largely on Prime Minister Nehru himself.

Complain They're Not Consulted

On their side the Indians complain that they are not consulted on issues involving Asia. In their great sensitivity and pride they are fearful of assuming the role of humble petitioner.

Some unfortunate things have happened in the past. When Nehru visited America just a year ago, the papers here intimated that he would be able to get a gift or buy at greatly reduced price a million tons of wheat badly needed in India. That did not come about for a variety of reasons and the feeling grew on Nehru's return that India had been let down.

Certainly, the urgent need is for grain that will ease the pressure on an economy ridden by inflation. The wholesale price index is 414 with 100 the level before World War II. The problem of feeding ever more and more mouths has been complicated in the past year by drouth, flood and one of the worst earthquakes in history.

The long-term hydroelectric-irrigation projects now being built have not progressed far enough to contribute to current supply. Recently a deal was made with the Commodity Credit Corporation in Washington for 427,000 tons of surplus milled sorghum. This will be of some help.

Has Six-Year Plan Approved

For the longer pull India has a six-year plan approved at the recent commonwealth conference on southeast Asia in London. But nearly half of the capital to carry out this plan must be found outside India.

In the minds of some Americans here there is a doubt whether anything like Marshall plan aid could be applied in India in view of the vastness of the need and the generally retarded level of industry and technology. But they are likely to add that at least a limited experiment in cooperative aid must be undertaken if only to build essential good will in a working partnership.

The Times of India commented editorially recently on a United Nations economic survey of the far east. This showed that from July, 1945, to December, 1949 American grants and credits to the outside world amounted to a little more than $23,000,000,000. Several billions went to western Europe and most of the balance to China, Japan, Korea and the Philippines. "Strange though it may now appear," the Times commented, "the rest of Asia received only $53,000,000." And now, of course rearmament and the Korean war have a priority on dollars, raw materials and technicians.

Will India Go Communist?

If aid is not forthcoming, will India go communist? This is another large and oversimplified question no one undertakes to answer.

Indian communists, who took a line of sabotage and violence until a few months ago, have been dealt with sternly and even harshly. Many have been put in jail under a clause of the constitution permitting detainment of an individual up to a year without any specific charge being brought against him. This is now being contested in the courts.

In the spring India will undertake one of the most extraordinary experiments in the history of democracy. From 150,000,000 to 200,000,000 Indians will vote for the first time. At least 80 per cent are illiterate.

Could Turn To Biggest Promiser

The answer to the question about communism is likely to turn on what these newcomers to the democratic process have in their minds. If they have become aware to promises of improvement in the way they live—and almost any change would be an improvement—promises of a little more to eat and a little hope for their children, then they could conceivably turn in mass to the biggest promiser.

Their lot cannot be improved without help from the outside which means for the most part the United States. On his almost everyone is agreed. Without outside help it may not be possible to stem a rapid deterioration in the economy.

But for centuries these people have suffered. In famine they have again and again simply lain down in the street to die. The old and tragic cycle may repeat itself in spite of the political storms that are sweeping the world.

One Man's Opinion

By Walter Kiernan

Our sympathies are with Postmaster Donaldson who is trying to talk up two-cent postcards while we're dealing with 85 billion dollar budgets.

He's the closest copy we've had to the fellow who offered his fountain pen to squirt on a four-alarm fire.

His intentions were good but not exciting.

The postoffice is still dropping $500,000,000 a year but doubling the income from penny postcards wouldn't save half as much as halving the outgo from five-cent congressmen.

One fellow "extended" two pages of local polling places into the Congressional Record and sent it out stamp-free to every constituent. The only people interested were three barbers who got their shops in the list.

But anybody who can get congress to vote congess out of its fossilized franking privilege is too smart to be in congress.

All I know is that most of the guys who "extend" in the Record seem to over-extend on their record.

THEY ALWAYS DO

Tommy came home proudly from his first day at school.

"What did you learn in school?" asked his mother.

"Nothing," said Tommy; then, seeing the look of disappointment on her face, he added, "but I learned a lot during recess!"—Instructor.

It takes about 50,000 man-hours of work to build a medium bomber.

Hurricane Experience

(By HENRY McLEMORE)

Florida's sauciest hurricane since 1926 will be long over when you read this, but at the moment of writing it is squarely over, under, around, and inside my house.

The barometer has dropped so low that a midget on all fours could hardly read it, and a seagull is perched on the living room mantelpiece with all the aplomb of Poe's raven. He—I say "he" although it might well be a girl gull—came through a window of the sunporch that blew in a few minutes ago.

When the winds reached 85 miles per hour I placed James in charge. James is our man-of-all-work, and was in the Navy in World War II.

He's talking to me right now, and I'll just put down what he says. It gives a pretty good idea of what is going on around here.

Better Abandon Ship

"You and Mrs. McLemore had better get ready to abandon ship. Them picture windows in the front room are bending in toward the fireplace. If they go, head for the garage, but be sure to go fast. Them tiles on the roof are flying around like bees.

"Hot, diggety-dog! There goes the doghouse."

I glanced out the window, and sure enough, the doghouse was passing by about 20 feet in the air, and headed for wherever good doghouses go.

"Any dogs in there?" I asked James.

"No, sir. Dinah and Bumble are playing in the guest bedroom upstairs. You know how them spaniels love water."

All of a sudden a dead calm descended outdoors. One second the shriek and moan of the wind, the next everything as quiet as an empty church.

I breathed a sigh of relief, lowered the umbrella under which I had been working in the breakfast room, and said, "Well, I guess it's all over."

Just Taking Rest

"Over nothing," James snorted. "That hurricane is just taking a rest between rounds. It'll be back in a minute."

Jean, fetchingly clad in a bathing suit, suggested that I leave my typewriter and help her and Ruth, the cook, mop the floors, move the rugs, stack the furniture, brace the doors and look for candles to use when night came.

I said there were no more mops—that both she and Ruth were using two apiece, and I knew my house wasn't a six-mop house.

"Well," she said, "there's plenty else to do. Start stuffing newspapers around the window sills, and get to placing pots and pans under the drips. In other words, don't sit there pecking away at that typewriter. You can't send the column, anyway. There is no telephone, the power is out so Western Union isn't working, and the airplanes aren't flying, and you can't swim from here to the railroad station to put it on a train. So quit monkeying with that tyepwriter when the only home you own is about to be blown and washed away."

Isn't that just like a woman. I thought she'd be proud of the calm, that if I stirred myself, and went to work and did my share, they'd realize how grave the situation really was and would all go to pieces.

Bumble and Dinah have just swum down from the guest room.

I guess it is my duty to send Jean right up there to see what has happened. A strong swimmer, Jean. Born right here on the ocean.

Looking At Life

By ERICH BRANDEIS

Two short order cooks in a fashionable restaurant sat down for a little chat after the evening rush was over.

The discussed culinary art in general and their own prowess in particular.

Pretty soon an argument developed as to which one of the two was the better cook.

The argument became hotter and hotter, and finally broke into flames.

So the two went out into the alley, took off their coats and started to sock each other, to prove once and for all which one of the two really could prepare a better meal.

One swung at the other and missed.

But, in eluding the blow, the fellow who had been "swung at" fell and struck his head on a cement curb.

He was taken to the hospital with a bad scalp wound.

The other chap disappeared, but was arrested several hours later for speeding fifty miles an hour, and taken to the hoosegow.

Apparently he had tried to drown his sorrows in something more potent than an argument or a fight—then he became conscience stricken and attempted to get away.

Incidentally those two fellows were not the MAIN cooks in that restaurant.

The CHEF did not stoop to enter into any arguments as to who was the best cook. His job and his paycheck were sufficient proof of that.

This little story teaches several things.

First of all, it shows that nothing is ever gained by arguing.

Nine times out of ten—or ninety out of a hundred, or whatever figure you want—arguments get bitterer and bitterer until the breach cannot be patched up.

Then the breach becomes a break. In personal life a friend may become an enemy. In business, an argument may cost a client or a partner a job. In national relations it may end in a war.

Then, too, there is the old saying "a man convinced against his will is of the same opinion still."

The winning of an argument may give the winner a glow of self-satisfaction, of superiority, of accomplishment.

But it humiliates the loser, offends his vanity, rankles in his mind.

ome people say it is nice to have an occasional scrap with your wife.

It feels so good, they claim, when you make up again. That may apply to the husband—but, after many years of marriage, I doubt whether it feels so good to the wife. Women can carry grudges for a long- long time.

Another point: If a person is really better in anything than someone else, he does not have to argue about it. His performance is sufficient proof.

Whenever I am driving my car and someone else passes me I get the urge to show him that my car is just as good—or better than his.

But then I think of the best automobile advertisement I ever saw. It was advertising an expensive make of car.

The headline: "HE DOES NOT CARE WHO PASSES HIM."

They Say

WASHINGTON—Atomic Energy Commission Chairman Gordon Dean on the U. S. atomic stockpile: "You may be sure we are stronger than Russia. But ten or five to one atomic bomb is too many for an unfriendly nation to have."

DES MOINES, Ia.—Treasury Secretray John Snyder: "The most effecive over-all measure for minimizing inflationary pressures... would be to pay for all our defense expenditures out of increased revenues..."

WASHINGTON—Gen. Omar N. Bradley, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff: "Now is the time for action, for we must either create these (European defense) forces now...or we may be forced to improvise them in the face of an enemy attack."

FLUSHING MEADOW—UN Secretary General Trygve Lie: "We must be strong in collective action against armed aggression. We must be equally strong in the determination to move forward step by step toward a peaceful reconciliation of the deep and dangerous conflicts that divide the world today."

State Police Say:

Rear-end collisions often occur when the vehicle ahead slows down or suddenly stops. Avert such accidents by observing these simple precautions: Maintain a distance of at least one car length for each ten miles of speed between your car and the car ahead (30 mph, 3 car lengths; 40 mph, 4 car lengths; 50 mph., 5 car lenths). Make frequent use of the rear view mirror to check up on the car behind you. Give proper hand signals before stopping, turning or slowing down.

HIGHLIGHTS OF MODERN FURNISHINGS

Furnishings for today's home reflect today's living. Furniture is functional in design, and scaled in correct proportion to the room. Colors are being used in clearer and more lively tones. Harmony in home decoration is maintained with the use of fewer colors and large areas of neutral color.

Designers are interpreting the needs of today's way of living. Rooms appear larger and more restful through the grouping of furniture. Chairs and sofas for conversational groups are easy to lounge in. The traditional "suites" or "sets" of furniture are being replaced by unit furniture with interchangeable basic parts, making them adaptable for various types of service or storage. Upholstery material may be of easy-to-clean, colorful plastic, or a textured weave woven with carpet yarn.

Drapery materials show hand-blocked or hand-screened cottons and linens, with designs more abstract than floral.

Rugs now on the market are of cotton and linen as well as the standard wools. Texture in rugs rather than design is highlighted; nubby surfaces, short twisted pile, and sculptured designs are popular.

The dramatic lamp with its dark shade and ornate base is gradually giving way to a more functional lamp designed to give more light with less glare, and equipped with a shade what will throw the light where needed.

CONDITION SOWS AND GILTS TO PRODUCE SPRING LITTERS

Final selection of the gilts and sows to be bred tomorrow next spring should be made now. Carefully cull the old sows and retain only those with good farrowing records and in good physical condition.

Discarded sows can be placed with gilts showing good conformation and from large litters, since the ability to produce large litters is an inherited character.

Experimental work indicates that sows gaining rapidly in weight at breeding time will farrow larger litters than poorly nourished animals. So it is important to feed heavily for 2 or 3 weeks before mating.

More and more Lawrence county farmers appreciate the importance of early marketing and are breeding their sows to farrow early enough so the pigs will reach the high-priced market in early fall. For early spring farrowing, the sows will have to be bred in October or early November.

STORE WELL-MATURED SQUASH AND PUMPKINS,

Winter squash and pumpkins, if well matured on the vines before picking, can be stored for several months. They will stand some frost but not a severe freeze. They may be left in the garden or field for a time to harden, if piled up and covered at night.

Squashes and pumpkins store best under warm, fairly dry conditions. The relative humidity should be 50 to 70 per cent, and the temperature 42 to 55 degree F. with good circulation of air. Place the squashes or pumpkin not more than 3 or 4 deep in a room provided with facilities for heating. Squash may be stored for short periods between layers of straw or hay.

Some varieties of squash keep longer in storage. Hubbard and Delicious squash are good keeping varieties. Table Queen or Acorn stores well for shorter periods.

TEEN-AGERS NEED GOOD BREAKFAST

Teen-agers more than any other group of school children need to be sold on the importance of a good breakfast. Teen-agers are often figure-conscious, and many believe that skipping breakfast will help them keep trim. Recent research studies prove that whether men or women ate no breakfast, their weight did not vary. They could choose what they wanted at other meals. This means that eating a good breakfast is not fattening.

SHORT CUTS EASE HOUSE-KEEPING TASKS

Have you found the best way to do your your housekeeping jobs? Perhaps there is no one best way for everyone—but there may be a better way. When you stop long enough to study the task, you will find short cuts. And furthermore, your housework will lose some of its monotonous drabness. You will have experienced the zest that comes from finding an easier and a quicker way of doing a better job.

First, study your equipment. Is it in good repair and is it placed for convenience in using? A paring knife that is dull will not cut so well or so rapidly as a sharp one; an electric mixer stored on a high shelf is not the labor-saving device it could be if stored in a place where it can be used; a hairpin does not loosen a screw so fast as a screw driver.

Have you tried to make one task out of two, such as using a furniture cleaner which both cleans and polishes? Do you use both hands for dusting chair rungs and table legs? It goes much faster than when you lean on one hand.

Each of us seems to have a certain speed at which we work best without undue fatigue. Perhaps we should not try to work beyond that speed. It is not a matter of hurrying up the job so much as it is to find better and quicker ways to keep house.

Attempt Made To Hold Up Mail Truck

SALIDA, Colo., Oct. 26.—(INS)—A melodrama of the old west with a modern backdrop was playing a real-life run in Salida today with a sheriff's posse hot on the trail of a "big black sedan" whose occupants tried to hold up a mail truck.

The tradition of the stagecoach holdup was followed to the letter across nearby Monarch Pass last night when three persons in a late model high-powered car crowded a mail truck off the road.

"Pull over! We've got a gun on you! one of the car's passengers shouted.

Mailman C. J. Helmericks answered by pulling out his .45 caliber revolver. He fired three times. The would-be mail robbers answered with two shots as they sped away. Helmericks said he hit the car's rear window.

GROWING BY READING, MEDITATION

REFLECT ON 'THINGS OF GOOD REPORT', SAID PAUL

The soul's awakening.

"Whatsoever things are true, whatsoever things are honorable, whatsoever things are just, whatsoever things are pure, whatsoever things are lovely, whatsoever things are of good report: if there be any virtue, and if there be any praise, think on these things."—Philippians 4:8.

Scriptures—Acts 17:10-15; Philippians 4:8-9; I Timothy 4:12-16; II Timothy 2:15; 4:13.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

How we may grow in grace through good reading and meditation is the theme of our lesson today. Probably more people in the United States can read and write—in proportion to the population—than in any other country of comparable size.

This seems to have come about because printing was invented before the United States came into being as a nation. Persons in all walks of life in our country read.

What we read, however, is more important than the number of books we peruse. When we are in trouble, we turn to the Bible and read passages like the 23rd Psalm, or other like verses, which remind us of the goodness of God and His help in time of trouble.

If we grow into the habit of reading the scriptures and meditating on them; we will be immeasurably helped in our daily living. Our thoughts have a wonderful influence on our daily conduct.

Books that stimulate thinking along high moral lines—"good literature"—should help us to become better parents and teachers and our children to have high ideals.

There are many distractions for the average person in this modern world. The automobile which tempts us to go places—sight-seeing and visiting friends; the radio, so many programs on which are given over to stories of crime and violence—but not all, of course. We get much good over the air. Now television, and the movies—which are not always elevating.

We must be selective in our looking and listening to these marvelous inventions of our age.

Our story starts with Paul leaving Thessalonia, where he had been preaching, teaching and reasoning with his hearers. Much good had been done, but the "Jews which believed not," the temple authorities, probably, who were envious, gathered together "fellows of baser sort" and got them to stir up the city. Not finding Paul, they took his host, Jason, into custody, for a time.

The brethren sent Paul to Berea by night. In Berea, which was a city in Macedonia on the road to Thessalonia, he was received more courteously, and there they "received the word with all readiness of mind, and searched the scriptures daily, whether those things were so."

Many believed, including "honorable women which were Greeks, and of men, not a few."

When the Thessalonian Jews heard of this, they came to Berea and stirred up the people there, so that the bretheren sent Paul away again, and he sailed to Athens.

Writing to the Philippians while he was a prisoner in Rome, he sums up the fruits of reading and meditating on the scriptures.

"Finally, Bretheren," he wrote: "whatsoever things are true, whatsoever things are honest, whatsoever things are just, whatsoever things are pure, whatsoever things are lovely, whatsoever things are of good report; if there be any virtue, and if there be any praise, think on these things.

"These things, which ye have both learned, and received, and heard, and seen in me, do: and the God of peace shall be with you."

"Think of these things"—honesty, justice, purity, loveliness, and those of good report"—and try to live them, and truly "the God of peace shall be with us."

To Timothy he wrote: "Let no man despise thy youth; but be thou an example of the believers, in word, in conversation, in charity, in spirit, in faith, in purity.

"Meditate upon these things: give thyself wholly to them; that they profiting may appear to all."

And again to Timothy, in his second epistle, he wrote: "Study to show thyself approved unto God, a workman that needeth not to be ashamed, rightly dividing the word of truth."

One more word Paul wrote to his "beloved son," Timothey, asking him to bring to him "the cloak that I left at Troas with Carpus . . . and the book, especially the parchments."

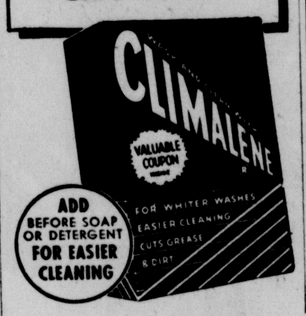

Paul wanted to read these manuscripts and meditate on them, even as he prepared for death.

Scots Debate Kilts Parade

LONDON. — (INS)—Chiefs of the Scottish clans are split wide open over whether they should parade their kilted, knobby knees before "foreigners."

The dispute arose because of the plans announced for a parade of Scottish chieftains next year in Edinburgh as part of the 1951 Festival of Britain.

The 43-year-old Marquess of Bute immediately let it be known that he would refuse to participate in the parade, "to be goofed at by foreigners." He appealed to other chieftains to join him in the boycott.

At his Inversray castle, the Duke of Argyll, chief of the famed Clan Campbell, said he thought the planned gathering of the faithful is "a very good idea." He added that he certainly will attend.

Along came 74-year-old Sir Donald Cameron of Lochiel, a proud, independent Highlands man who described the project as "theatrical nonsense." He asserted:

"I'll have nothing to do with it. I'll go nowhere near the gathering."

Cameron's family, incidentally, emphasize their independence by quoting the saying—"The King can make a belted knight, but he can na' make a Lochiel."

Despite the opposition of Cameron and the Marquess of Bute, the Scottish committee of the Festival of Britain insisted that most of the Scottish chieftains will be at the Edinburgh gathering. One official said:

"The Campbells are coming and so are the MacLeans, the MacLeods, the MacGregors, the MacKays, and the MacKinnons."

Tom MacPherson, chairman of the Council of Clan Societies, said that it will be the "biggest gathering of the clans since 1745."

Six or seven "lady chiefs" are scheduled to appear.

THE FAMILY SCRAPBOOK

By F.R. ERNEST G. OSBORNE

Too Interested To Misbehave

Mrs. Radcliffe was amazed. As she watched the group of nine-year-olds in their classroom working away at all sorts of jobs, she said, "But Miss Roberts, I would think you'd have a lot of trouble with discipline." The teacher smiler. "Oh, no. They're too interested to misbehave."

And that's what happens in the best of our schools today. The children are so busy with interesting and challenging jobs that they don't have time for foolishness.

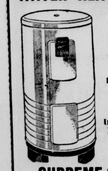

The same policy will work at home, too. The old saying, "The devil will find work for idle hands to do," is a pretty sound one. It needs a little interpretation though. Busy-ness alone isn't enough. Children aren't likely to keep busy with something that's uninteresting to them. But the youngster who rushes home to work on his stamp collection or to do painting that she hopes will be hung in the Girl Scout troop room just won't have time to get into mischief.

Children, of course, are going to be getting into trouble now and then. That's natural and normal. But it won't happen often if we make it possible for them to have a lot of interesting things to do.

Westminster Will Launch Fund Drive

Westminster College will launch a $1,245,000 drive for funds here November 1 in connection with the college's forthcoming centennial celebration.

The New Wilmington drive is the first phase of a drive that will become nationwide by January 1. Over $360,000 already has been subscribed to the centennial fund which will go into four major building projects and a $100,000 college endowment fund.

The college already has under construction the biggest expansion program in the 99-year history of the institution. Under construction are a dormitory, field house, and college manse. Scheduled for construction by 1952 is a new science hall.

Kickoff Dinner

The New Wilmington phase of the campaign will get underway November 1 with a kickoff dinner on the campus for campaign workers. Attorney John V. Wherry of Grove City will be the principal speaker. He will be introduced by W. Fillmore Campbell of New Wilmington who is local campaign chairman.

A special gifts committee will begin solicitation of funds following the wind-up of the local drive, Robert Ferguson, vice-president of the People First National Bank of Pittsburgh, will head this phase of the drive.

In January the campaign will spread to other localities in Pennsylvania and Ohio and to alumni throughout the country. A $45,000 gift by the J. S. Mack Foundation already has provided funds for the college manse. The Memorial Field House drive, underway since last spring, will close November 15 and future memorial gifts will be incorporated into the general centennial campaign.

Drama Clinic At Westminster For High School Students

Westminster College's annual drama clinic, sponsored by the department of speech for high school students in surrounding communities, will be held on the campus Saturday.

Speech department staff members will hold special seminars on acting techniques, problems of play direction, and backstage routine.

Other scheduled activities include stagecraft displays, make-up demonstrations, lighting demonstrations, a costume style show, and radio drama demonstrations in the college radio studios.

Tibet Invasion May Have Started

LONDON, Oct. 26.—(INS)—Unofficial reports originating in Tibetan quarters in India suggested today that armed units of Communist China already may have invaded Tibet.

Tibetan officials at Kalimpong, India, near the Tibetan frontier, expressed surprise at the reports.

The unofficial reports were to the effect that forces of unknown strength had crossed into Tibetan territory. It was not stated whether the troops were Chinese army regulars or members of the so-called Tibetan "Liberation Army" which radio Peiping mouthpiece of the Chinese Communist regime, announced was marching on Tibet to free its 3,000,000 people from "imperialist oppression."

Tibetan sources in India estimated that the Tibetan government forces in the eastern part of the Asiatic mountain land adjacent to China total one division.

QUALITY FASHIONS At REMARKABLY LOW PRICES

In The Open

The day was made to order. Overhead a parade of bulky thunderheads wheeled across the blue vastness, accenting the curtain of October haze which dimmed the far horizons. Between the brief interludes of fleeing shadows the timbered hillsides flared into the flaming tartans of Sandy McAutumn. Sassafras edgings framed the picture in bronzy-yellow, doing their best to hold back the molten fire of sumac and woodbine and the luminous yellow flood of the hillside maples.

I rolled along a ridge road through all this pageantry, warming my heart at each successive bonfire in the gorgeous conflagration. The true countryman finds it hard to place allegiance with any particular season. Early April when the woods are all a-shimmer with vernal promise—the Hoosier poet's day in June—the wonderland of an all-white winter morning—these are all banner days in the country calendar.

But who is there to say that the October countryside, deep in dreamy Indian summer, rich in the fullness of harvest, is not the best time of all? This is "the last of life, for which the first was made".

Followed Gypsy Lure

I followed the gypsy lure of the gay October trees on and on across the rolling hills. Far down to the right a country auction was writing finale to the saga of another valley home. I could see the cars parked all about the homestead and the crowd milling around the crier in the barnyard.

High over the neighboring valley a wake of buzzards circled solemnly, adding the beauty of their effortless flight to the sunlit beauty of the day. Finally my roadway roamed down out of the hills, down through a tremendous grove of beeches into a wild and tangled valley threaded by a treacherous defile wide enough for but one car.

Parked close in against the hill on a steep offshoot from this valley thoroughfare, I donned heavy boots and set out on an exploratory trip. There were walnuts everywhere, walnuts literally by the ton, underfoot and still clinging in exposed clusters to the leafless branches of the legion of nut trees which call this valley home. Our cellar still carries a heavy surplus, but I sacked up a few extra large fellows more to enjoy the tangy odor of the crushed hulls than for any practical purposes.

Heavy Timbered Acreage

A short circling path took me over a little rise and into the edge of a bit of heavily timbered acreage. Here I lounged for a time in the warm leaf mulch newly laid about the parent trees. The quiet in this wooded "draw" was broken only by the rustling of falling leaves and the occasional splat of an acorn falling free.

Back on the valley floor I was noting an extra heavy crop of walnuts in one tree when my eye struck another object well up into the dome of the blue sky above. Floating across in lazy majesty, with an occasional wing beat to insure momentum, was a pair of tremendous eagles, apparently twice the size of the buzzards still circling far beneath them.

There is no mistaking the flat-winged soaring of an eagle. The buzzard sails around with his wings curved slightly upward in a dihedral, but the eagle spreads himself out flat against the updrafts. I watched these great birds until they were pinpoint specks on their migration trail to their winter hunting grounds.

Flaming Foliage

The roadway trace in which I had parked the car ran up through an arching awning of flaming foliage. I walked for a mile or more up this winding trail, most of which was smothered in fresh-fallen leaves. Christmas fern and wild ginger were green on the hillsides. Gray squirrels were busy in the woods to either side and an indignant chipmunk boiled over wtih shrill venom when I disturbed his hoarding routine along that enchanted trail.

I saw one lone junco flirting his white tail feathers by the roadside, sure sign that the October honeymoon will soon be over. I ate my evening snack of sandwiches and hot tea on the porch of my "sang" hunting friend who lives a bachelor's life in a bachelor shanty in that secluded valley. All summer long the zinnias and marigolds and nasturtiums run riot about his weatherbeaten abode. He loves the color and the hominess of these flowering beauties but he refuses to share his knowledge of bee trees and persimmon groves and ginseng patches. Next year I'll bribe him with some gladiolus bulbs and a few dahlia roots.

District Representatives Of Auxiliaries Assemble

Representatives of 33 hospitals who comprise the Northwestern Association of Hospital Auxiliaries, gathered in New Castle on Wednesday for its third meeting of the year.

Sixty-four association members were in attendance at the all-day session and thoroughly discussed organizational work and problems pertaining to the welfare of hospitals. Sessions were held in the New Castle Hospital Nurses' home.

President Mrs. William L. Strawbridge opened the meeting at 10:30 o'clock. She said in her welcome: "Many of you have come a considerable distance, which is evident of your abiding interest in hospital work and in this organization. This organization has great potentialities for good, for better service to our own hospitals, our community and our state." She urged members to "be generous with your experiences—we need your help."

Dr. Flannery Speaks

Dr. Wilbur Flannery, local physician was the principal morning speaker. Dr. Flannery gave an interesting account of the proper reading material which should interest women members of hospital auxiliaries.

He said in part: "As hospital auxiliary members, it should behoove all of you to read articles about topics needed for hospital work, namely health articles and science advancement.

First, articles of the hospital as a health center in the community. The hospital plays a great part in the health of the community; and read about problems of hospital standardization by the American Hospital Association and American Medical Association.

Secondly, read discussions on research. Research is the principal reason for advancement in the matter of human welfare.

Third, problems relating to vivisection. It is important that those people in research and science permit the intelligent use of animal experimentation. Those who would interfere otherwise, are definitely hampering the progress which is beneficial for human welfare.

Fourth, hospital auxiliary members should recognize that the care of sick people in the community is best done by those individuals who are fully qualified and recognized as trained properly to advance the healing arts, so that all people close to modern hospital work are not to be taken in by cultists.

Fifth, problems in the fight against socialized medicine.

Sixth, the value of voluntary hospital and medical insurance plan.

Dr. Flannery continued: "The seventh type of articles should develop properly the philosophy of the layman, associated with the business that requires specialized knowledge and skill." And last, as number eight, he urged the members to read articles in the field of legislation that applies to hospital welfare and to be ready to be loyal to those matters in legislation which advance the cause of the modern hospital.

A detailed report of the recent convention in Atlantic City, by Mrs. Warren G. Young of Oil City, and a discussion period brought the morning session to a close.

Luncheon Enjoyed

At 12:30 o'clock, the members and guests were served a delicious luncheon by the Sisters of St. Francis, in the nurses home. Bouquets of colorful marigolds centered the small arranged tables.

An hour's tour of the New Castle hospital followed, including the newly furnished and decorated nurses lounge. The Auxiliary is responsible for the new decorations in the lounge.

The afternoon session was opened with an encouraging address by Mrs. Louis F. Kohn, prominent civic and social leader.

"Women in Leadership," was the topic of Mrs. Kohn's talk. "Leadership is to guide, advise and cooperate," said Mrs. Kohn. Today, in this man's world, woman can work together with the men, side by side. And although they are usually homemakers, they can use their leisure time to a great advantage."

She continued, "In the past and in the present, women leaders have carried on in war, peace, schools and in legislation. There are two types of leaders: profession and lay leadership. This morning you have heard the professional leadership when Dr. Flannery spoke.

"Women as leaders go back as far as in the days of the Bible, up to the modern times. Women can revolutionize ideas, and they watch what is going on. They can become interested in the problems of a community. When individuals form into organizations," she stated, "there is always some good to be done." In conclusion Mrs. Kohn commended the New Castle Hospital Auxiliary for its splendid work and accomplishments.

Sister Mary John, superintendent of the New Castle hospital extended an invitation for the association to return to New Castle. In behalf of the association, Mrs. Strawbridge thanked the superintendent for the hospitality extended the organization.

Ideas were exchanged by the members of the Auxiliary and an informal session of hospital problems were discussed and ironed out—all leading toward a smoother harmony in Hospital Association work.

It was decided to have the next meeting on the last Wednesday in April, the meeting place to be in Indiana, Pa.

The association covers an area of northwestern Pennsylvania and representatives from the following towns were in attendance in New Castle Wednesday: Ellwood City, Sharon, Indiana, Grove City, Greenville, Bradford, Kittanning, Oil City, Franklin, Butler, Brooksville, Punxsutawney, the Jameson Memorial hospital Guild and the New Castle Hospital Auxiliary.

Report Studebaker Auto Workers Vote In Favor Of Strike

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Oct. 26.—(INS)—A CIO-United Auto Workers official announced last night the union's membership at the Studebaker Automobile Co. has voted nine to one in favor of a strike.

President J. D. Hill of Studebaker local No. 5 added, however that the strike authorization "does not necessarily mean we will call a strike".

No company-union negotiations are now in progress and neither management nor labor representatives have disclosed details of the current disagreement.

Studebaker employes reportedly are uneasy over unconfirmed rumors that the company is seeking to reduce its personnel by introducing new equipment nad assembly methods. Studebaker employs approximately 23,000 persons in passenger car, truck and office work.

Stassen Declares Truman Would Admit Red China

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—(INS)—Harold E. Stassen has accused President Truman of fostering post-election plans to "embrace" communist China in the United Nations.

The former Minnesota governor now University of Pennsylvania president, declared in a radio speech last night that Mr. Truman will "quietly encourage" admission of Red China to the UN after the Nov. 7 balloting.

Stassen said the U. S. state department will "raise no serious objection" to the UN voting a permanent veto seat to communist China after the American elections.

Stassen charged that President Truman's purported post-election "embrace of the Chinese communist dictator, Mao Tse-tung" also will put "a Formosa present" in the Red China leader's pocket.

At the same time, however Stassen said that the United States should not commit itself to "permanent backing of Chiang Kai-shek" even if Red China is not admitted to the United Nations.

Instead, he proposed American aid to what he called "an arising third force in China."

Religious Feature Film To Be Shown At Slippery Rock

The service is sponsored by the Women's Missionary society of the church and is their annual thankoffering service.

Final Curtain Rings Down On Jolson Story

By OWEN CALLIN
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 26.—The final curtain rings down today on the Al Jolson story when thousands of the public that loved the singing comedian join in paying tribute to him in Hollywood's Temple Israel.

Actor and Song Writer George Jessel will deliver the formal eulogy to the entertainer who sang his way into the hearts of millions in blackface comedy and pathos.

Then the body of "Mr. Show Business" will be carried to a temporary resting place at Hillside Memorial Park pending construction of a shrine.

Entombment will be private to give his widow, the former Erle Galbraith, and his intimate friends a secluded last farewell to their "Jolie."

Changes in the funeral arrangements were made twice late yesterday. Previously Jolson was to have been laid to rest at Forest Lawn Memorial Park, where many of the film greats have been buried for the past quarter-century.

Plan for Shrine

Intimates reported the family's desire to erect a shrine in Jolson's honor led to the decision to change the final resting place to Hillside Memorial Park.

Paul R. Williams, internationally known architect, was engaged to design the shrine.

The great bronze casket bearing the remains of the beloved Jolson remained in state at the Jolson Ensino home. He had been dressed in his favorite blue suit, blue knitted tie and white shirt.

Ten of Al's closest friends will be the active pallbearers. These are Harry Akst, Maurice Aroff, Harry Brand, Harry Cohn, Louis Epstein, Martin Fried, Al Goetz, Nathan Kramer, Arthur Stebbins and John Steinberg.

The elite of Hollywood will turn out as honorary pallbearers. Names which flashed next to Jolson's on theater marquees across the continent will witness the services.

British Labor Party Majority Reduced

LONDON, Oct. 26.—(INS)—The British Laborite government's overall majority in the House of Commons was reduced again today to eight members when the Conservative party won out in a bye-election.

Conservative Col. J. R. H. Hutchinson, a ship owner, was elected to the seat previously held by his party. He amassed a total vote of 18,494 against 17,175 for his Laborite opponent, William Bargh.

Hardware Sellers With False Label

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil—(INS)—The sale of nationally manufactured agricultural tools bearing falsified British industrial labels has lead to the arrest of the three owners of one of this city's largest hardware stores.

The firm had been wholesaling to their distributors throughout the region, shovels, rakes and other types of agricultural tools bearing the brand of a British firm and two Union Jack flags.

The material had all been manufactured by the Tanax group of Sao Paulo on consignment to Araujo, and delivered here without any brand. The brands were applied at the local wholesaler's depot.

Police said that with the British mark the material had been sold for as much as twice the price of similar nationally manufactured goods.

Farm Roundup

Crop Outlook To Be Shown

Farm Economists Called To Conference

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—(INS)—The government is calling together farm economists from all states to attend the annual agricultural outlook conferences next week.

The weeklong meetings, beginning Monday, Oct. 30, at the agriculture department, will result in bringing to farmers as much information as possible about anticipated economic conditions in the U. S. to help them plan next year's production.

One or more of the department's extension service economists from each state are expected to attend the sessions. The economists will take the information back to their states and adjust the national economic picture to state conditions.

To Call In County Agents

Then county agents will be called in and informed of what the best considered calculations are for price and demand conditions next year. They in turn will hold meetings wtih farmers in their counties.

The agriculture department draws together all possible information from the commerce department, the state department, the federal reserve system and all other government sources to piece together the best possible forecast for next year.

The annual outlook conferences are said to be the only operation in the country where all available government economic information is pulled together and handed down through the channels to help a large group plan for the following year.

The agriculture department reports that civilian food consumption during the 1949-50 fiscal year ran at the same high level as in 1948-49 and 11 per cent above the prewar rate.

At the same time, the department says that food exports, at 15.6 million tons in 1949-50, were the lowest since the war although more than three and a half times greater than the pre-war average.

The decline in food exports in 1949-50 compared with the year before had little, if any, effect on the level of civilian per capita consumption. That, the department says, was because the reduction in exports occurred mainly in wheat and wheat products. Domestic supplies of wheat have been plentiful since 1946.

The rate of domestic consumption is due to the continuing high level of general economic activity, employment and flow of income to consumers.

The department says that during the 1949-50 fiscal year, the nation's civilians absorbed 87 per cent of the total amount of U. S. foods distributed, exports took 11.7 per cent of the total distribution, the military services required slightly less than one per cent and U. S. territories used about a half of one per cent.

GIFTS AT HOUSEWARMING

Question: Are guests obliged to bring gifts when they attend a housewarming?

Answer: Therde is no obligation to do so but guests usually do bring something for the new house

Question: After having registered at a hotel, is it correct to ask the bellboy to take my things to my room and return the key if I have a friend waiting for me to go out? Or must I excuse myself to my friend and go up to my room with the boy?

Answer: Tip the bellboy and tell him to take your bag to your room You may wait until he returns with the key or let him hand it in at the desk, which is the usual procedure anyway.

Question: I do not always like to wear a hat but I do wear gloves Is it proper to wear gloves and no hat?

Answer: There used to be a rule stating that no "lady" ever appeared on the street without a hat; but so many young high school and college girls are now going bareheaded that I'm afraid this rule must be modified. Gloves and no hat are now frequently seen.

Question: Is it proper to have a corsage for the guest of honor at a tea, as well as for those pouring?

Answer: It is permissible, but not necessary. In fact, it would look somewhat odd to have several of the guests wearing corsages.

Contributions To Campaign Are Lacking

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26—(INS)—Senate and House Republican leaders today predicted sizeable GOP gains in the forthcoming national congressional elections, but voiced concern over the lack of campaign contributions.

Sen. Brewster (R) Maine, chairman of the Senate GOP Congressional Campaign Committee, said Republicans are sure of gaining four seats in the Senate and have good prospects of ousting Democrats in nine other Senate contests.

Rep. Leonard Hall (R) N. Y., chairman of the House GOP Congressional Committee said Republicans would gain a minimum of 30 seats in the lower chamber and could increase this number to as many as 60 seats.

Should the maximum predictions of the Senate and House GOP leaders be realized, the Republicans would win control of both branches of Congress.

Brewster listed as minimum gains the Senate seats in Pennsylvania, Idaho, California, and the Connecticut post now held by Democratic Senator Benton.

Maximum Gains

Brewster said his maximum list of gains included these additional states—Utah, Illinois, New York, Oklahoma, Maryland, Nevada, Washington, Rhode Island and the Connecticut seat of Democratic Senator McMahon.

The Maine Republican said the GOP is running a "poor-man's campaign" and is having some difficulty meeting payrolls.

Brewster said there has been "a certain lack of enthusiasm" among businessmen. He explained that some businessmen have become "a little skeptical" of a Republican victory. He added:

"Businessmen have frequently been wrong. I think we have an excellent prospect of winning control of the Senate—better than in 1946 when he won control of Congress."

The Republican senatorial campaign said his party now feels confident that Sen. Taft (R) Ohio, will win a stiff fight for re-election. He added that the chances of GOP Senators Donnell, Mo., and Millikin, Colo., look better.

New Jersey School Athletics Suspended Because Of Polio

CLAYTON, N. J., Oct. 26.—(INS)—The Clayton public school district became the second in South Jersey today to suspend all athletic activities because of poliomyelitis.

Supervising Principal T. Franklin Kerschner made the announcement after a 13-year-old pupil, John H. Hawkey, was admitted to Camden Municipal hospital. Earlier, an eight-year-old Clayton boy had been stricken.

The suspension cancelled a football game scheduled at Gloucester high tomorrow night, and a girl's hockey game today at Swedesboro. A high school dance planned for Saturday night also was called off.

Kerschner said playground activities and physical education also will be suspended. He added however that the Clayton schools will not close unless more polio cases occur.

Stronger Pockets Demanded In Pants

LONDON—(INS)—Housewives of the little villages of Cutthorpe and Etwall in Derbyshire, are up in arms.

The pockets of their menfolks pants wear out too quickly, and somthing has to be done about it.

So at a meeting at the village Women's Institution the irate band of housewives, tired of continually mending pockets, drafted a letter to British manufacturers demanding that men's trouser pockets be made of stronger material in the future.

"Screws, keys, money, and six-bladed penknives cause the holes, but the main fault is that the material pockets are made of are frailer these days," said Mrs. Ivy Latham, wife of an electrician, and Etwall's representative at the Institution meeting.

Mrs. Lucy Skiddall, of Cutthorpe, said "Canvas may be the only material strong enough to stand wear and tear."

A London tailor commented: "If men treated their clothes with the respect that good material deserves instead of filling the pockets full of junk, there would not be this sort of complaint."

A judge in Worthing, England, fined a passenger a pound (two bucks 80) for falling off a train. Wonder what the fine would have been if the luckless rider had fallen under the train.

Rubber Supplies More Plentiful

AKRON, O.—(INS)—The United States can build its stockpile of rubber more easily today than it could ten years ago.

One of the reasons, according to Harold Gray, tchnical superintendent for the B. F. Goodrich company of Akron, is that pound for pound rubber goes farther today than it did in 1940.

And it's a good thing it does, Gray points out, because the annual rubber consumption of the country now passes a million tons as compared with 650,000 tons ten years ago.

Nearly all rubber products have a potentially longer life today because of research and developments during the past decade.

For example, this year's passenger tires, made with new, man-made rubber combined with improved carbon blacks, are giving drivers 15-25 per cent more tread mileage than in 1940, Gray said.

But, Gray thinks the American driver is still the big question mark in the otherwise optimistic stockpiling picture.

"Motorists form the biggest potential source of rubber conservation. They can help if they will use the tires they have as long as they can."

Rejections In Draft May Be Cut One Third

By DARRELL GARWOOD
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26 — Defense officials estimated today draft rejections could be cut one-third by professional checkups and treatment such as would accompany universal military training.

About that proportion of the turn-downs among draft registrants, they said, are for physical and dental defects that could be corrected.

President Truman told the National Guard Association yesterday that UMT would help eradicate the "disgrace" of a 34 per cent draft rejection rate in World War II.

Rate Much Higher

The rate is now much higher. Latest Army statistics covering last August show nearly 50 per cent rejections for the following reasons:

20.1 per cent for physical and dental reasons solely.

6.7 per cent for combined physical and mental reasons.

17.6 per cent for mental reasons solely. This means inability to pass an intelligence test.

3.2 per cent for "neuro-psychiatric" reasons, including emotional instability and sex disorders. The armed forces do not knowingly accept homosexuals.

.9 per cent for "administrative" reasons, such as the discovery of a criminal record or falsification or mistakes in registering.

Defense leaders said the rejections that most obviously could be avoided are those for dental reasons.

The draft requirement is for 16 sound teeth, but "suitable dentures or bridges" such as could be provided in clinics are accepted.

The officials said that many physical defects could be elminated promptly if there were universal medical examinations to discover them and prescribe the proper treatment or surgery.

They said that civilians in many cases either do not know their physical defects or are inclined to put off the correction in a manner not permitted in the military services.

Registrations In Philadelphia Are Under Investigation

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 26.—(INS)—Senate probers launched their investigation into alleged illegal registrations in Philadelphia today while Republicans and Democrats watched the inquiry with mixed emotions.

The agents, forerunners of the subcommittee on privileges and elections headed by Sen. Guy M. Gillette (D. Iowa) arrived last night and conferred with Joseph Sharfsin, special counsel to the committee for Pennsylvania.

Democrats predicted the probers would unearth "strong arm" tactics by Republicans, while GOP spokesmen expressed their convictions that "exactly nothing" would be uncovered.

The Pennsylvania investigation will also extend to Luzerne county where Thomas Farrell of Wilkes-Barre, chairman the county Democratic lawyers committee, will assist.

Browning Named As State Officer

HARRISBURG, Oct. 26.—(INS)—Morris Levin of Philadelphia today is new president of Keystone Bottlers' Association.

Other officers elected at the conclusion of the association's convention at Harrisburg are: Wesley Woodson of Altoona, first vice-president; E. H. Browning of New Castle, second vice-president, and Asa L. Day of Wilkes-Barre, secretary.

Report Deanna Durbin Is Planning To Marry

METZ, France, Oct. 26.—(INS)—The French News Agency reported that former movie star Deanna Durbin plans to marry filmland director Charles David at Sarreguemines between Dec. 10 and 25.

The one-time singing star is now awaiting a final divorce decree from her second husband, Felix Jackson.

LONGEST FLIGHT

The arctic tern migrates farther each year than any other bird.

What To Feed Squirrels

Some folks through their kindness to squirrels contribute to their discomfort by feeding them food which disagrees with them.

Squirrels of the woods are nut eaters who depend upon the hard shells to keep their teeth ground down, and the oil that is in the kernels conditions the hair on the body to withstand the seasonable changes.

Squirrels for unknown reasons are allergic to salt and when they get too much of it in their system they acquire mange and lose their hair. In the summer when the days are hot the hair on a Squirrels body filters the sun's rays. This acts as a cooling system for the body, but if the hair is lost because of too much salt the skin burns, causing it to crack open, forming large sores. In bad cases of mange the skin on the head draws so tight it closes the squirrels eyes.

Feeding the Squirrel food such as bread or roasted, salted peanuts in the winter also causes a mangy condition, for the hair on the Squirrel must act as a shield against the cold winds and when the hair is off the animals body it chafes and cracks and the squirrel freezes to death.

If you wish to feed the Squirrel's in the summer and winter, feed them nuts, corn, apples, sunflower seeds and raw peanuts. Also save the seeds from your melons during the summer and dry them for they make good food for the birds as well as the Squirrels.

Republicans Hear Graham

Congressman Speaks At Meeting Held In Arena Wednesday

"What the Democrats are calling unexampled prosperity in the United States is only a half truth" Congressman Louis E. Graham told a group of about 450 voters Wednesday night in the Arena.

Congressman Graham pointed out that with the expense of the Korean war the national debt is now over 300 million dollars, that in spite of the billions the nation has spent towards peace, Russia is still preparing to strike, and that despite statements to the contrary by the Democrats, there are still all too many Communists in the government.

Payroll Topheavy

The government pay roll is top-heavy with useless appointees he said, and showed that while Pennsylvania has only about 10,000 persons on the state payroll, there are over 37,000 Federal job holders in the state.

If a Republican victory on November 7 turns the House over to Republican control he said he would be in line for an important chairmanship in the event he is re-elected.

Two other candidates addressed the crowd, Attorney Robert M. White, Republican candidate for the General Assembly in the first district and Assemblyman William H. McCullough, candidiate for re-election to the General Assembly from the second district.

Donation Day Huge Success At Almira Home

Don't think that people are becoming completely "heartless" these days, for the generous gifts received by the Almira Home on Wednesday proved that people can still give from their hearts.

Each year the annual donation day is held at the home, but yesterday marked the third annual open house and the 200 visitors were definite proof of the success of the affair. This was the largest crowd at the home for any open house, and the ladies who reside there, all of whom are in good health, thoroughly enjoyed the happy occasion. The contributions received surpassed any previous year, and the local citizens are to be commended for their participation in the program.

Receiving Line

Mrs. W Walter Braham was chairman of the event, with visitors welcomed in the morning afternoon and evening. The receiving line included Mrs. Howard C. Harper, president of the board; Mrs. George Bell, first vice president; Mrs. Lola Harris, superintendent of the; Mrs. Roger Rowland, Mrs. James Rhodes and Mrs George Harbison.

Dainty refreshments were served during the entire day by members of the junior board of the Almira Home. Mrs. William Wallace and Mrs. Robert Weingartner poured in the afternoon, while Mrs. Ralph Campbell and Mrs. William Cleland presided at the tea table in the evening.

Residents of the home and guests enjoyed music in the evening by an orchestra composed of Emil Branstetter, Anthony Casbero, Elmo Moncrief, Edward Candioto Clare Gibson and Ray Melcer. These men appeared under the auspices of the performance trust fund of the American Federation of Musicians.

It takes just little things to please people, and the ladies of the home and Mrs. Lola Harris are grateful for the lovely floral donations and courtesies extended them for the occasion.

Whittemore-Lowe Appear Tonight

Opening the concert season for the Metropolitan Concert Guild Whittemore and Lowe, a piano team, will appear tonight in the Cathedral at 8:30.

The two young men come here with a reputation for musicianship. They should attract a crowd.

Season tickets are still available and can be obtained yet tonight. Individual admissions will be sold at the door tonight.

Truckers Attend Sharon Dinner

About thirty five members of the Lawrence county chapter, Pennsylvania Motor Truck Association went to Sharon Wednesday night where they attended a dinner of the Mercer county group.

The dinner was held in the American Legion hall in Sharon with about 275 attending. State President Charles B. Wiley and General Manager Edward Gogolin were the principal speakers.

Early flags were almost purely of a religious character.

Staid House Of Commons In Uproar Today

By THOMAS C. WATSON
(I. N. S. War Correspondent)

LONDON, Oct. 26.—The staid House of Commons was thrown into an uproar today during the initial session in its new meeting chamber by antics reminiscent of an opening night at the Metropolitan Opera.

The decorum of the new house was shattered when the daughter of the late David Lloyd-George plunked herself down in the lap of Laborite Clement Davies.

Lady Megan Lloyd-George, deputy leader of the Liberal Parliamentary party, chose to rest herself on Davies' lap when seating space became nil through overcrowding.

Shortly afterwards the house roared its disappointment when pudgy Winston Churchill tried but failed in an attempt to rest his feet on the new speaker's table. He could not match the feat of former Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden, who has longer limbs.

Disdain Shown

Traditionally the leaders in Commons had shown disdain for what their opponents were doing by slouching in their seats and resting their feet on the table. But the new table is not at a farther distance from the front benches.

All of the Laborite members of Parliament, except Prime Minister Clement Attlee, Deputy Prime Minister Herbert Morrison and Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin, flaunted tradition by refusing to wear top hats and morning coats.

All of the Conservative members were attired correctly.

The Parliament members met in advance of the official opening of the rebuilt house by King George VI, who spoke to the legislators at nearby Westminster Hall.

After declaring "not for us the silence of suppression," the monarch said:

"The voice of true democracy still is heard among our peoples."

In the Laborite "house warming" which was held in nearby Westminster Hall—about as close as the king can get constitutionally to the house—the monarch was sort of "just another man" on the outside looking in.

Four New Homes Are To Be Erected

Four new $10,000 frame dwellings are to be built on Hazelcroft avenue according to permits granted by Edward Longacre, clerk in the City's Bureau of Building. Altman and Patterson took out three of the sanctions. The houses will be erected at 512-516, inclusive.

The other will be built by Joe Hucks at the corner of Hazelcroft and Highland avenues.

Other permits granted follows:

Stanley Hyakubik, 1026 Lorain avenue, foundation for trailer, $250.

William H. Jones, 411 Park avenue, brick fence, $100.

Albert Gabriel, 601 Cascade street, block garage, $4,000.

G. Palmieri, 316 Montgomery avenue, frame garage, $100.

Albert Chill, 1004 Shira street, block garage, $300.

John Presnar, Smith street, frame utility room, $200.

S.N.C. Boro Group Organizes P.T.A.

In the school auditorium of South New Castle Boro a large group of residents gathered Tuesday evening with Richard Morgan presiding.

Purpose of the meeting was for the organization of a Parent-Teachers association.

Dale Hennon was elected president; Stanley Kosin, vice-president; Mrs. Ruth Heaton, secretary; Jennie Jermakowicz, treasurer.

Refreshments were served, the halloween motif being carried out in the decorations.

Next regular meeting will be held November 21 in the school.

BODY IDENTIFIED

ALMEDIA, Pa., Oct. 26.—(INS)—The body of a man found Tuesday afternoon on a Susquehanna river island near Almedia today was identified as James Allen Reynolds, 37, of Wilkes-Barre.

The victim, sought since witnesses saw him leap from the Market street bridge in Wilkes-Barre on February 15, was identified by his wife Irene.

Rosary beads and false teeth provided police with the first identity clues after the decomposed body was discovered partially buried in sand on Barney's Island in Columbia county.

RED RESISTANCE IN NORTH KOREA GROWS STRONGER

ster the offensive aimed at completing the occupation of North Korea.

Push Up East Coast

Above Wonsan, a South Korean column pushed up the east coast to within 155 miles of the Soviet Siberian border and 105 miles of Chongjin, last big North Korean industrial seaport still in Communist hands.

American officials in Seoul were checking with U. S. officers in the field for further information on South Korean assertions placing as many as 20,000 Chinese Red soldiers in North Korea.

Expressing skepticism regarding these reports, the officials disclosed that the ROK First, Sixth and Eighth Divisions as well as the British Commonwealth's 27th Brigade ran into stubborn resistance all along the northwest Korean front Thursday.

"It was to be expected," said one American officer, "that the enemy would make a stand somewhere on his own territory and now he is in good defensive terrain."

Meet Red Resistance

The British Commonwealth forces, spearheading a drive up the west coast along which the U. S. 24th Infantry Division was moving up to join in the advance, bumped into Red resistance near Pakchon after crossing the Taeryong river.

The ROK First Division encountered strong opposition near Unsan, 20 miles northeast of Pakchon and nine miles southwest of Onjong where the ROK Sixth claimed it had met Chinese soldiers in battle.

The ROK Sixth's message however contained no indications of the type of uniform being worn by the soldiers the South Koreans identified as Chinese. American officers in Seoul said that in previous actions Allies troops had captured men wearing North Korean army uniforms who turned out to have been long-time Chinese residents of Korea.

Resistance Stiffens

There was some stiffening of North Korean resistance in the eastern sector also. Airmen reported heavy Red mortar fire had stalled Allied 10th Corps troops near Chori, 95 miles northeast of Wonsan.

Above Chosan, the ROK Sixth division troops were near a highway bridge that spans the Yalu into Manchuria.

The curling Yalu flows in a southwesterly direction about a mile north of Chosan, a road junction. Chosan is 123 air line miles due north of the Allied-occupied former North Korean Communist capital of Pyongyang.

It lies 87 miles inland from and northeast of the frontier city of Sinuiju in Korea's northwest corner, opposite the Chinese Manchurian city of Antung at the southwest end of the slanting border.

American, South Korean, British and Australian troops are driving toward Sinunju along the main rail-highway route linking Korea with Manchuria.

First To Reach Frontier

The ROK Sixth Division's Seventh regiment was apparently the first United Nations unit to reach Korea's northern frontier facing Red. China's Manchuria.

Earlier in the day, this regiment had been reported at Yongsang, 12 miles south-southeast of the border town of Chosan. Farther west, ROK First Division artillery was reported in emplacements commanding the Yalu boundary. But this unit evidently lost its race with the ROK Sixth Division to be first to arrive at the border.

The radio message reporting Chinese Communist troops were fighting in North Korea came from the ROK Sixth Division earlier Thursday. Even the area where the Chinese soldiers were purportedly encountered was not clear from the message.

But a UN General Headquarters communique had told of heavy enemy opposition met by the ROK Sixth Division northwest of Onjong and by the ROK First north of Unsan. These sectors lie about 40 to 50 miles south-southwest of Chosan.

Checking Reports

American officials were checking South Korean reports that regular Chinese Red soldiers were battling UN forces on Korean territory. The latest such report was received in Seoul some 24 hours after South Korean troops quoted a prisoner as saying he was one of 20,000 Chinese Communist soldiers sent into Korea from Manchuria late last week.

Officials at Gen. Douglas MacArthur's Tokyo Headquarters remained skeptical of these reports. Commenting on the assertion that 5,000 Chinese Red soldiers were in action in one Korean sector, an American Intelligence Service spokesman said:

"This is the latest in a series of cockeyed reports. Why should the Chinese at this time throw in such a force? Two hundred thousand, yes. But no small forces such as we have been getting in these reports of the last couple of days."

Fire Hose Is Being Tested

Tests are being made of the city fire hose this week, to determine its fitness for future use.

The tests are being conducted on North Cedar street, and the hose is put under 250-pound pressure. Tests were finished for No. 7 and No. 2 departments today, and will continue until the hose of all departments have been tested.

Defective Gas Hose Causes Fire

City firemen were called to the home of Mrs. Catherine Kale, of 332 Kurtz street, at 11:05 a. m. today, when a defective gas hose caused a small fire, which set fire to the baseboard and then to the wall. Damage of around $10 was done, Fire Chief H. F. Steinbrink reported.

KITTEN GETS SERVICE

OMAHA — A telephone misunderstanding caused the Omaha Fire Department to give special service to Boots, an Omaha kitten. The firemen were notified that the kitten was trapped in a sewer but to the operator the appeal sounded like "kid in a sewer." An emergency call got firemen there in minutes. Boots is safe and in good shape.

Tea was dumped from three ships in the Boston Tea Party.

Margiotti's Charges In Newspaper Strike Are Labeled 'Silly'

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 26.—(INS)—Attorney General Charles J. Margiotti's charges that the Pittsburgh newspaper strike was a political plot were labeled silly today by indignant newspaper union officials and city and county officers.

Margiotti made the charge in Harrisburg yesterday, stating that he was "definitely considering" an investigation of the 26-day-old strike on the basis of reports that it was "politically inspired."

It is Margiotti's contention that a highly placed city official and a leading county official conspired with union officers to blackout news of the attorney general's present probe of the city administration.

John A. Feigel, chairman of the Board of Directors of the Newspaper Unions Publishing Company and president of Local No. 7, International Typographical Union, declared:

"Wholly on the basis of fantastically absurd and unfounded rumors that seem to have been circulated deliberately, the attorney general appears to be willing to drag 3,000 unemployed newspaper workers into a political fight that is none of their making."

THE LOWLY WORM

Fishing is a queer sport, its queerness stemming largely from the man behind the rod, pole or whatever contrivance he may employ.

Some addicts of the so-called gentle sport are called purists, which in simple language are lofty individuals who haughtily disdain the use of anything but artificial flies calculated to simulate insects of the air borne. They would sooner be caught dead than seen using anything but the most cunning of dry flies. They consider it the height of something or other to deceive their quarry with the exquisite bits of steel, feathers, and varnish which they employ.

They look with horror upon the plug fisherman using what they (the purists) believe to be monstrosities. The live bait fishermen employing such piscatorial delicacies as minnows, crayfish or hellgrammites are outcasts, while the humble go-getter using the lowly Lumbricus (nightcrawler to you and me), is considered an untouchable. If you have ever encountered one of these Brahmins of rod and reel while you were dunking worms, then, you know what I mean. When a purists condescends to answer a wormer's cheery "How're they bitin'?" he is slumming.

However, the worm fisherman is to fishing what the average citizen is to our American way of life; not only its backbone, but also its very sinews and muscles. Yes, for every dry fly fisherman there are thousands using worms and even grosser baits.

When you were but a broth of a lad or lass, wasn't the worm the piece de resistance most frequently sought for your fishing forays? Wasn't the sign of the spade and a tomato can the trade mark, no, let's call it the hallmark, of the worm fisherman?

Izaak Walton called fishing the contemplative man's pastime. But, how in the world can it be so if the angler is busy casting a fly or a plug? The very epitome of fishing is experienced by the bait fisherman and particularly so by those using worms. For example, one, treads a juicy nightcrawler onto his Limerick, pushing the keen point of the hook down through the nethermost regions of its squirming anatomy. The fisherman enjoys this even if the worm doesn't. Then, after observing that time honored custom of spitting on the bait, he heaves it with abandon out over the water as far as his equipment will permit, and then rests the pole on a forked stick. While the bait is settling into the depths, he finds a comfortable seat and settles into it.

Taking it easy on the Slippery Rock. Bill Williams and Owen Fox at Andy Dodd's camp.

So, there you have it. While the fisherman awaits on the vagaries of his finny prey, he can look about him at the glories of nature, daydream and even sleep. It is just what the doctor ordered in this age of the atomic pile and jet propulsion. It is the rare fisherman indeed who cannot forget the cares and fidgets of this world by giving himself or herself up to the placidity and peacefulness of still fishing with a worm (and to ye gentle disciples, we don't mean your husbands).

If you fish for the excitement which may come your way, then, this is not your sport. But, if you want to engage in some plain and fancy loafing and disguise it with the sport of the humble, it's your meat.

A parting word. Never, never make elaborate plans and preparations. Decide on the few mellow October days still available and then pick up and go.

State Expert To Quit Post

Donaghy To Take Industry Job

HARRISBURG, Oct. 26—(INS)—The State Government's top ranking expert on unployment compensation is expected to quit for a plush job with the Anthracite Institute. . . . He is Thomas J. Donaghy, of Newport, onetime advisor to a legislative committee which probed unemployment compensation in Pennsylvania and one of the most informed men on jobless legislation in the United States. . . . Donaghy entered state service in 1939 with a legislative committee investigating the jobless program. . . . When all loose ends were tied up, Donaghy was chosen by State Labor and Industry Secretary William Chestnut in 1943 to be his administrative assistant. . . . Actually, Donaghy administered the jobless pay program although others received the credit. . . . One of his last acts as a U. C. official was to attend a meeting of a national association of fellow officers to work out a formula for determining the financial division in the federal-state program.

Pertinent background on the establishment of the office of State Auditor General is being uncovered among files dating back to the 18th century now being studied by a special section at the state capitol. . . . The files were discovered when it was decided to renovate a storeroom. . . . The office was established in 1809 by the legislature by merging the duties of the Comptroller General and the Register General. . . . Both officials were paid 500 English pounds. . . . The first Auditor General was given a salary of $1.333.33 a year and the power of appointment was invested in the governor's office. . . . Dissatisfaction with selections prompted the legislature to take the power of appointment away from the governor in 1850. . . . For the next 59 years, Auditors General were selected by popular vote for three year terms and when the 1874 constitution became effective the "watch dog of the state's money" was designated one of the commonwealth's eight executive officers. . . . In 1909, voters approved a constitutional amendment extending the term to four years.

From time to time, some incumbent legislators seeking new terms in the General Assembly make unfounded claims to bolster their election chances. . . . Latest to join the ranks is Leonard A. Najaka, of Glen Lyon, a teacher and Republican member of the House since May, 1946. . . . As a teacher, his familiarity with the English language is unquestioned hence it is difficult to understand his claim in political advertising that "Leonard Najaka sponsored the soldiers' bonus bill in the House." . . . The bill which Najaka claims to have introduced three years ago actually was sponsored by House Military Affairs Chairman Baker Royer, of Lancaster. . . . Adoption of the bill initiated the bonus program. . . . Najaka did introduce a soldiers bonus bill February 18, 1947, but it was sent to committee and never again saw the light of day. . . . He did not introduce "the" soldiers bonus bill as claimed.

Feast Of Christ The King Sunday

The Feast of Christ the King will be observed on Sunday, October 29 in Catholic churches throughout the world.

Local Catholic churches will have special services and exposition of the Blessed Sacrament will be held all day. In the evening, Holy Name men will participate in processions and benediction of the Blessed Sacrament will bring services to a close.

The Feast of Christ the King commemorates the public homage to Christ as a ruler of the world. The Feast was instituted in 1925 by Pope Pius XI, to overcome the danger in laicism. (Defined laicism is the elimination of any responsibility to God).

German 'Thank You' Letters Received By Junior Red Cross

Every year members of the Junior Red Cross fill educational gift boxes to be sent to school children overseas.

Today thirteen thank you letters were received in the Red Cross chapter office, according to Mrs. Frank E. Eichholtz, Junior Red Cross Chairman. All thirteen of these letters are from schools in Germany. Only two of them were written in English. The balance had to be translated. Martin Leonhard of the Peoples Bank came to the rescue in this translation job.

These letters are addressed to Lincoln high school and Hartman school both of Ellwood City, and Rose avenue school, Lincoln-Garfield school and George Washington junior high school of New Castle and Sunny avenue school of Union township. Some of these schools received five letters. To illustrate the principle of internation good-will which underlies this gift box project, one letter reads:

Wallersdorf

"Dear Fellow Members of the Junior Red Cross:

Yesterday we received your kind gift parcel and we thank you very much for it! You have made a great joy to us, chiefly to the poor of our class.

Yours thankfully,
Junior Red Cross of the Wallersdorf Elementary School 5th Class."

Happy Is The Day When Backache Goes Away . . . .

As we get older, stress and strain, overexertion, excessive smoking or exposure to cold sometimes slows down kidney function. If your discomforts are due to these causes, don't wait, try Doan's Pills, a mild diuretic. Used successfully by millions for over 50 years. While these symptoms may often otherwise occur, it's amazing how many times Doan's give happy relief — help the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters flush out waste. Get Doan's Pills today!

Election Probes In Four States

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—(INS)—Chairman Gillette (D) Iowa, disclosed today that his senate elections committee is sending two unidentified investigators into each of the four states in which charges of campaign irregularities have been made.

Gillette said that the teams leave Washington for New York Pennsylvania, Iowa and Kentucky.

The senate's top-policeman on elections said that investigators can do a better job if their identity is not disclosed to interested parties.

The senator said that while he has heard rumors there might be complaints of election irregularities in Utah and Connecticut, no allegations involving these states had been called to the committee's attention.

Gillette charged that "tremendous sums of money" and "political horsetrades" are tending to dominate senatorial elections and threaten the effectiveness of the upper chamber.

United States, Canada Sign Agreement

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—(INS)—The United States and Canada today signed an agreement designed to achieve "a coordinated economic effort for their common defense."

The new agreement is a reaffirmation of the World War Two policies reached between President Roosevelt and Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King.

Secretary of State Acheson and Canadian Ambassador Hume Wrong signed an exchange of notes giving the agreement effect.

A joint U.S.-Canadian industrial mobilization planning committee has actually been functioning since April 12, 1949 to make plans in case joint action should again become necessary. The State department declared:

"The increase in military requirements and the need for reimposition of such economic controls as are required by rearmament programs of both countries have made it necessary to implement plans made by the joint planning committee.

Pool Is Closed At Washington School

Rees Flannery, director of recreation in the city of New Castle, announced today that due to unavoidable circumstances the swimming pool at George Washington junior high school will be closed until further notice.

It will be impossible to hold the swimming classes for girls on Monday, Tuesday and Thursday nights, but the girls may swim the same evening at the Ben Franklin junior high school pool.

Correct Shoe Size Shown By Lights

CLEVELAND—(INS)—Anyone who buys a pair of shoes in the future will get a good look at his correct shoe size.

At least that is the hope of A. Maurice Smith, a men's shoe buyer for a Chicago store.

Smith has invented a foot measuring device which lights up the customer's correct shoe size on a panel.

The panel uses 21 miniature lamp bulbs of the type found in flashlights. One bulb illuminates each number which shows the shoe sizes from 5 to 15. A separate unit for sizes 13 to 6 has been developed for the junior trade.

Recognition Event Held By Y-Teens

Wednesday evening, the Ne-Ca-Hi group of Y-Teens under the leadership of president, Sherry Plonka, held their annual recognition service to initiate all new members into the club. Each girl was given a candle, later lighted when the girls sang the Y-Teen Hymn.

The meeting started with the chocolate for Christmas ceremonial, with Janet Flick being the leader. Each girl brought chocolate bars to be sent to other countries served by the Y. W. C. A.

Susie McCann, program chairman, introduced those who were to speak on "Interpretations". Interpretation of membership was lead by Nadyne Stevens; of purpose by Judy Scott, Terry Dolson, and Judy Smith; of Y. W. C. A., by Kathlene Essinger, Lynn Thayer, Betty Dugan, Gerry Ticcone, Joyce Kennedy, and Nancy Leckwart.

The regular business meeting followed, Janice White read the minutes of the last meeting. Terry Dolson told about the hayride which was held last Saturday. Approximately 100 people attended. After the hayride, everyone went to Eastbrook camp where they had refreshments, entertainment, and dancing until 11:30.

GET READY NOW, BRADLEY WARNS

ATLANTIC PACT nations must create integrated defense forces now "or we may be forced to improvise them in the face of enemy attack," Gen. Omar Bradley, chairman of the U. S. Joint Chiefs of Staff, told Atlantic pact defense chiefs meeting in Washington. From left: Bradley; Marshal Lord Tedder, British Royal Air Force; British Air Marshal Sir John Slessor; Field Marshal Sir William Slim, British chief of staff. Defense plans are being talked. (International)

Exercise Combats Artery Hardening

LONDON—(INS)—If your doctor tells you that you have "hardening of the arteries" don't think you're a "has-been" and immediately go into retirement.

This is the advice of 66-year-old British doctor Sir Adolpe Abrahame, consulting physician to the London Westminster hospital and honorary medical officer of the British Olympic athletic team.

Twenty-five years ago, Sir Adolphe was told "rather expectedly" that he was suffering from calcification of the arteries.

Since then, he writes in the British medical journal "The Lancet," he has continued to take "strenuous exercise in the form of rowing, fast-walking and climbing."

In 1949 Sir Adolphe had a section of his arteries cut out from his foot and his wrist for examination. His present weekly routine is—a four or five-mile brisk walk and skipping for half-an-hour before dinner on four or five days a week. He said:

"It should encourage the practice of continued activity rather than the idea that one has to retire as a "has-been" in the 20's or early 30's."

Sir Adolphe's contribution to this is a proposal to run a mile on his 70th, 80th and 90th birthdays.

"Providing you don't stop at any stage there is no reason why you should not continue to take vigorous exercise until late in life," he said.

"There is perhaps a great danger if an athlete stops and then tries to pick it up again.

"But calcification of the arteries is not the serious condition it was once thought to be."

Says Congress Elections To Be Closest In Years

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—(INS)—Rep. Leonard Hall (R) N. Y., chairman of the House GOP Congressional Committee, declared today that the election of House members next month will be the closest in ten years.

Hall made public the results of a district-by-district survey of election prospects and predicted that the Republicans will gain a minimum of 30 seats in the House and could increase their number by as many as 60 seats. The latter figure would give the GOP control of the lower branch of Congress.

Hall said the greatest single handicap now faced by Republican Congressional candidates is lack of funds, which has made it necessary for them to cut their advertising, radio and organizational budgets by as much as 50 per cent.

In many Congressional districts, he said, it is estimated that the combined funds of the Democrats Political Action Committee, and Americans for Democratic Action exceed Republican funds by as much as five to one.

Slush Funds

In a telegram to Hall, House Minority Leader Martin (R) Mass., said:

"Your survey just arrived. When you make it public, I hope you pull no punches. It would be a tragic shame if the people of this nation were deprived of a Republican 82nd Congress merely because the left wing coalition has slush funds that exceed Republican contributions by as much as five to one."

Hall said that a majority of the districts covered by his survey indicate "widespread resentment against the confusion and incompetence in Washington."

He said the present election outlook is similar to 1942 when the Republicans lacked only nine seats of capturing the House. Hall added:

"It is a distinct possibility that the Republicans may fail to capture the House by a hairbreadth margin for lack of funds, much as we did in 1942, which was the worst year from the standpoint of contributions in the party's history."

Kiwanians Hear Talk On Safety

Erie R.R. Safety Man Speaks Wednesday

New Castle Kiwanis Club members have a better idea of railroad safety, and the precautions taken to safeguard the lives of passengers and merchandise, following the talk given by Joe F. Corey, superintendent of safety, of the Erie railroad at Youngstown.

Mr. Corey explained the meanings of the various combinations of lights used in a railway signal block. Three colors are used in the signals, red, green, and yellow, and the positions of these three colors in the various combinations guide the engineer and firemen in the operation of their train.

The men riding the engine are required to know these combinations and to pass frequent examinations, to see that they do not get careless, Mr. Corey stated. The high safety record of the Erie railroad is a tribute to the men who handle the trains on that road.

His talk proved most interesting and instructive.

Legion Auxiliary Plans Poppy Day For November 4th

Perry S. Gaston Unit, No. 343, American Legion Auxiliary, will have its annual Poppy Day sale on Saturday, November 4, the Saturday preceding Armistice Day.

The unit has secured 8,000 poppies, made in Pennsylvania Veterans hospitals, for distribution on this occasion. Mrs. John Speed, president of the auxiliary, has named Mrs. Elizabeth Miller as general chairman for this year's sale.

The money derived from the sale of these poppies is used by the Auxiliary for their welfare work during the year.

Summer Camps Have $3,000,000 Revenue In Pennsylvania

HARRISBURG, Oct. 26—Pennsylvania's organized, supervised summer camps for boys and girls had a total of approximately $3,000,000 in revenue this past season, said Theodore Roosevelt, III, Secretary of Commerce, after a completion of a survey made by the department's vacation and recreation division.

The survey also revealed that improvement programs in camps prior to the opening of the 1951 season will amount to about $3,000,000. These improvements will include new kitchen facilities, better waterfronts, addition of new recreational facilities, construction of more adequate hospital facilities, new cabins and bunk houses, painting, new equipment, new dining halls, landscaping and ground improvements and general repairs.

There were nearly 6,000 more boy and girl guests at these summer camps the past season than in the previous year bringing the total campers in 1950 to nearly 35,000. There are approximately 300 summer camps in Pennsylvania, most of them in the Pocono Mountains of northeastern Pennsylvania.

Wm. Carlson Promoted To Grade Of Corporal

William F. Carlson, 21, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph S. Carlson, of 723 Chestnut street, New Castle, was recently promoted to the grade of corporal.

Carlson entered the Army in September, 1948, and has been in Japan since April, 1949.

Death Rate Higher Among Males In Nation, Records Show

NEW YORK, N. Y., Oct. 26.—The American female contradicts the description "weaker sex" by showing markedly greater tenacity for survival than the male of the species at each year of life, according to Metropolitan Life Insurance Company statisticians.

This is evidenced by the higher death rates that prevail for males as compared with females for every age group.

The advantage enjoyed by females is greatest in the late teens and early 20's, when the mortality among men is almost 90 percent higher than that of women, and again in the early 50's when the excess in male mortality is about 75 to 80 percent. The least differences in mortality are in early childhood and at the later ages of life.

Marked Contrast

"The situation today is in marked contrast with that a half century ago, when the disparity in the death rate between the sexes was considerably less," the statisticians report. "Then the greatest excess of male over female mortality occurred in the first year of life, but amounted to only 21 percent. At many ages the death rates for the sexes were about the same; and at ages 15 and 16 the rate for males fell below that for females."

The increasing excess of male mortality, the statisticians point out, reflects changes in the relative importance of the causes of death. For example, at the turn of the century tuberculosis was the leading cause of death at ages 15-19, and recorded a much higher death rate among females than males. Currently accidents outrank by far any other cause of death at these ages, with the mortality four times as great among the males as females.

"A factor that has favored women throughout the childbearing ages has been the sharp decline in maternal mortality," the statisticians comment. "Women have benefited also from the smaller size of family; and the modernization of the American home, with its labor-saving devices, has lightened their daily tasks."

New York Stocks

Stock Market Trend Is Lower

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—(INS)—The stock market broke sharply today under a heavy flood of selling which forced the high-speed ticker as much as eight minutes behind. It ran behind for a period of 46 minutes.

It was the widest decline since the first sell-off on the news of the Korean fighting last June. Pressure was attributed to profit-taking touched off by the news that President Truman planned to call a special session of congress soon after election to get to work on an excess profits tax bill.

The ticker lagged so far behind that the exchange began posting "flash" prices from time to time to give traders a more exact picture of the market situation on the floor.

The bond market also sagged with speculative rails under pressure.

Commodities were improved cotton up $1.65 a bale, wheat up 3/8 of a cent a bushel and corn up 5/8.

German Schoolboy Bringing Message From East Germans

VALLEY FORGE, Pa., Oct. 26.—(INS)—A 15-year-old German schoolboy is scheduled to arrive at New York's Idlewild airport today with a "sealed mesage" from German school children behind the iron curtain.

Wolfgang Bernhardt is aboard a plane returning American dignitaries who participated in the crusade for freedom program last Tuesday in Berlin. He is escorted by Gov. Luther Youngdahl of Minnesota.

The German youth will present the sealed message to students from 51 American schools gathering at Valley Forge on Saturday to receive freedoms foundation awards for their American way of Life programs.

To Present Medals

Dr. Robert L. Johnson, Temple University president, will present honor medals and "freedom libraries" to students and teachers receiving the foundation's 1950 school awards for citizenship programs.

The winning schools were chosen by a 21-member awards jury composed of Chief Justices of State Supreme Courts and executive officers of patriotic organizations and service clubs.

The 1950 school awards program was designed to find the most effective programs in existence in American schools for teaching active citizenship.

Winners will spend the weekend visiting Valley Forge, Independence Hall and other historic sites in the Philadelphia area.

Among the individual school winners were Hamilton high school, Hamilton, O.; Peabody high school, Pittsburgh, and West View high school, Pittsburgh.

NOTICE!

TO ALL MY FRIENDS and CUSTOMERS

Time has a way of passing, after 48 years of business in the tailoring trade, I am now retiring because of my health and age. I was for many years a coat maker for John Bower and Son, William Hutchison, and Andrew O'Neil. Then in this fine city of New Castle in the year 1912, I established a Ladies' and Men's Custom Tailoring Shop. I conducted my business in a clean and honest manner and exerted every effort towards maintaining goodwill with the best of my ability toward serving my customers. My successors are Mr. Ectore Tranquillo, Tailor, and George W. Scarazzo, Mgr. of the newly formed Diamond Tailors. I recommend them highly to you. Mr. Tranquillo is my nephew and an expert designer. He has 12 years experience at a local concern. I feel sure they will conduct their business in a forthright manner and with satisfactory merchandise and service. Visit them and feel confident in that they will serve you in the best possible way.

WHEN

I DO NOT GO TO CHURCH

I say that as humanity lives up, as it does every Sabbath Day, I prefer to be with the friends of evil rather than with the friends of God.

I say that all the host of brave and devoted souls who carried the great labors of the Kingdom of God down the long Centuries, were dupes for they too could have sat home in lazy ease. I say that in the ancient adage that "a few people make the world, the rest come along and live in it," I choose to be numbered with "the rest".

Owen P. Fox Speaks

Owen P. Fox, city forester, gave an informative talk on "Wild Life," telling the importance of trees and birds to our existence. He stated that if the trees were destroyed, within 24 hours life in the United States would cease.

Last winter the food situation was critical, and when Mr. Fox made a plea for feed for the birds, the farmers of the locality contributed 450 bushels of corn and 1,000 pounds of sunflower seeds. Sunflower seeds are probably the best seed there is for birds, as it furnishes the necessary oils for them to exist. A general discussion followed Mr. Fox's talk.

The group will assemble again Tuesday evening, November 28.

Gen. Eisenhower To Confer On Military Future

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Oct. 26. — (INS) — General Dwight D. Eisenhower said Wednesday that he is going to Washington this week-end for conferences which may result in a military future for himself.

Gen. Eisenhower added that he would talk with military leaders and perhaps with President Truman.

Asked at a news conference in Indianapolis about reports that he would be named commanding general of the armies of the Allied forces in Europe, Eisenhower said:

"I am happy and pleased to learn that the western European nations think I could do a job for them. I am a soldier and they can send me any place they want to."

Eisenhower, who generally is regarded as a leading possibility for the 1952 Republican Presidential nomination, was asked whether he is a Republican. He avoided a direct reply, saying:

"I have been asked that question many times and always try to do a little broken field running in answering it. I am a soldier and I am not certain my active days are over. I don't believe you would want to put me in a false position by answering that question."

Can't Do It Alone"

Gen. Eisenhower said restoration of morale in western Europe is the greatest problem there, adding:

"We can't do this alone."

Eisenhower said that from a military standpoint, it would be easy to use Germans and Japanese as members of the United Nations military establishment, added:

"They are good soldiers and have fine non-commissioned officers. However, the political factor must be taken into consideration."

The general said the action of the United Nations in Korea was necessary and added that the world would be in "far greater trouble" today, if it had not occurred.

Eisenhower said he had the "utmost confidence in General Douglas MacArthur as a soldier" and added:

"However, you can't just lay down a geographical line and say you'll do this and that in various places, because the situation changes and many factors must be taken into consideration."

Try And Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

Jean Arthur, the Hollywood star who came back to Broadway to delight audiences with her recreation of the role of Peter Pan, is a very unpredictable young lady in private life. At the height of her film career, she suddenly gave up acting to enroll in a school in the east for a year. Another time she persuaded producer Max Gordon to release her from a contract to star in Born Yesterday, although the show was an assured smash.

This year, Bert McCord tells of an even more incomprehensible move by Miss Arthur. Before the Peter Pan revival was set, Alfred de Liagre persuaded her to read the script of Norman Corwin's "Mary and the Fairy". She called to say she was interested and suggested a reading. De Liagre and Corwin hurried over to her suite and the author began to read his play. Part way through the first act, Miss Arthur began to render her lines from memory, and continued letter-perfect through the remainder of the script. When she finished, however, she waved aside their enthusiastic comments and declared, "Gentlemen, I don't feel I'm right for the part," and walked out of the room.

Population Changes Bring Problems To Large Cities

By ED HAUCK
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

HARRISBURG, Oct. 26.—Officials of Pennsylvania's larger cities today face the problem of public services to meet demands resulting from population changes.

The 1950 census showed, while Pennsylvania gained 536,000 more people in 10 years, 29 counties lost population mostly through migration to the state's larger centers of commercial and manufacturing employment.

Two Main Currents

Roy Helton, of the State Planning Board, pointed to two main currents of postwar migration which will have a specific bearing on the cities' futures.

They are (1) the movement to towns of great numbers of Pennsylvanians from rural areas and (2) the shift of city dewellers to suburban fringe areas of central cities.

"Most of the larger cities need more police, better traffic facilities, expanded sewage systems, water and similar needs and the tax base hasn't gone up fast enough to provide the money for these things," Helton said.

"Such changes are the inevitable effect of a great war. And with the new long range national defense program getting underway and increasing industrial production needed, these trends in migration may be expected to continue.

"At least it will stop the reverse trend of the backwash that usually returns to former homes after wars."

He explained that while central cities continue to grow, the fringe areas revealed a tremendous shift in popoulation.

Best Illustrates Trend

Philadelphia best illustrates the trend, Helton said. From 1930 to 1940, Philadelphia lost two percent of its population but the next decade revealed a five percent increase.

Meanwhile, the nearby counties, Bucks and Delaware, jumped 33 percent in population with Montgomery and Chester close behind.

Factors generally credited by census experts with the shift to the suburbs are:

(1) The urge of a family to own a house and a small piece of land. This was made possible by postwar prosperity and with rising employment expected to continue because of defense.

(2) Increased automobile ownership and better transportation facilities of all types.

(3) Lack of housing, overcrowding and, to some extent, the desire to escape higher urban taxes.

In the average central city, traffic and parking are the most immediate difficulties that can be traced directly to suburban developments, according to Helton.

Streets are taking more pounding, require greater maintenance and though new highways are being built some valuable, taxwise property is shelved for conversion into parking lots in downtown areas.

In addition to utility problems are those of welfare and education.

Helton said city fathers have the unenviable future of collecting additional tax monies necessary to serve the needs both of the cities and the new suburban communities and finding a system whereby the suburbanites bear their share of the cost.

Federal Taxes Must Be Paid

Glenn A. Funkhouser, division chief, of the U. S. Department of Internal Revenue, located in the Post Office building, today issued a warning to taxpayers that social security and withholding taxes for the third quarter are now due and payable, and will become delinquent on October 31.

These payments must be in the mail along with the proper forms, so that they will reach the collectors office in Pittsburgh, or the division office here, on or before midnight October 31. Otherwise, the payer will be subject to the penalty for delinquents.

The local office will receive payments and issue receipts for the same, for those not caring to mail their returns to the district office in Pittsburgh. The office here is open from 8:30 a. m. to 5:30 p. m., Mondays through Friday.

OBSERVE APPLE WEEK

HARRISBURG, Oct. 26.—(INS) Gov. James H. Duff has asked Pennsylvanians to join in observing National Apple Week October 26-November 4 by exhibiting "pride in Pennsylvania apples and use more and more of them as a nutrious and healthful food".

He also endorsed National Beauty Salon Week October 23-28.

WILL WATCH HIS BACK

BERNE, Ind.—Gerald Brewster, 23, will watch where and when he scratches his back next time.

When Brewster scratched his back on a hunting trip, his 15-year-old brother, Gary, mistook his elbow for a squirrel and fired at it. About 60 shotgun pellets lodged in Brewster's neck, back, arms and legs.

Around Hollywood

By JAMES PADGITT
(International News Service Staff Correspondent)

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 2.—(INS)—There is a leg man in Hollywood who flatly declared today that Betty Grable's much admired gams are not the shapliest in Glitterville. Far from it.

Nixes the expert: La Grable's stems are too skinny.

The gent going against many males' opinions is Willys of Hollywood, hosiery designer who draped the black lace on Dietrich's lovely legs while she glittered about as a camera bar queen.

Barbara Is Tops

Willys says Barbara Stanwyck, who has not posed for "cheesecake" in years, can out-leg Grable any day. Others whose extremities are tops, according to Willys, are Rita Hayworth. Mona Freeman, Janis Carter, Jane Wyman and June Haver.

And, he added, Marie Wilson's curves in her legs are as delightful as her much-more publicized curves elsewhere.

In order to round out a sheer stocking to its fullest possibilities, a gal should measure 8½ inches around the ankle, 12½ at the calf and 19½ at the thigh, Willys states. And the knee circumference should be the same as the calf.

Not very many femmes can measure up to these standards, the nylon knower asserts. What is more, the feet are just as important as the legs.

Well Found Arch

Corns just are not allowed. Neither are callouses or bony heels. And you should have a well formed arch.

Another thing on the taboo list is bulgy muscles in the calf. Willys sighed and murmured that Rita Hayworth and June have probably have the most unmuscular stems for dancers in the movies.

Willys has joined forces with Standon D. Sanson, one of the nation's top-notch hosiery manufacturers, in opening a west coast plant for high-fashion hose.

Willys and Sanson have great ideas for you gals. They figure the celluloid queens can introduce them, then the sultry stocking-starved women can follow suit. They have designed such fantasies as rhinestone-studded heels and jewel-bedecked designs on the instep and calves.

Car Trouble Traced To Electrocuted Mouse

GREEN LANE, Pa., Oct. 25.—(INS)—Here's a new cause of car trouble:

A Green Lane motorist's auto suddenly became balky.

He lifted the hood and immediately saw what was wrong.

On a spark plug was the carcass of an electrocuted mouse.

No less than the rodent, Willard Kershner, the motorist, said he got a "big charge" out of the cause of his unusual car trouble.

HAT HITCH-HIKES

MEMPHIS, Tenn.—When wind blew H. V. Spencer's new Panama hat out of the car window, he stopped and searched the roadside in vain for several minutes. Arriving home, he walked to the rear of the car and found the hat hanging from the rear bumper.

Executive Club Members Hear Dr. H. H. Chang

Dr. H. H. Chang, distinguished Chinese diplomat, spoke to the members of the New Castle Executives club on "America's Stake in Asia" at the club's monthly dinner meeting in the ball room of The Castleton hotel Wednesday evening.

Dr. Chang, born and raised in China, though he completed his education at Harvard University, gave the Executives the views of a Far Easterner on the Chinese situation.

He explained the story behind the reasons that it was brought about. He told why the Chiang-Kai-Chek government failed and why it would never be able to regain the confidence of the Chinese people.

Dr. Chang attributed the unrest in China for the past number of years to the ambition of the people to try and better their positions and acquire personal freedoms. He stated that the Communists were able to take over because the Nationalists had failed to do anything to help better the conditions of the people, because of corruption within the government.

Eyes Of East On Korea

He went on to say that the eyes of the East are on Korea and what happens there will play an important part in the destinies of all Asia and the world as a whole. Whatever is done in China to free the people of Communist rule must be done by some new group, not the old Nationalist rulers, and must come about through the wishes of the people, Dr. Chang said.

After his talk, the speaker answered questions on the Chinese problem.

The speaker was introduced by Attorney William J. Caldwell.

New members introduced at the meeting were:

Mr. and Mrs. John Ray Preston, Mr. and Mrs. Don Scoville, Mr. and Mrs. Orville Potter, Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Ferrell, Mr. and Mrs. Frank McIntyre, Mr. and Mrs. John Edgar and Mr. and Mrs. Willard Belknap.

Next meeting of the club will be November 16. Speaker will be H. C. Kesinger, who will speak "Can Man Save Himself From His own Inventions??".

Reception committee for the November meeting will be Mr. and Mrs. Carl Paisley, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Ramsey and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Flanagan.

Iran May Be Next Target Of Soviet Russia

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—Iran, land of oil, may be the next international target on the timetable of Russia's striking hammer and sickle.

The Soviet's desire to "annex" her southern Middle Eastern neighbor can be traced to two strong elements: "Black Gold" that flows from Iranian wells, and Iran's strategic location.

Russia, herself, does not have enough oil to keep her machines of war running at full pitch over a prolonged period. Across the border in Iran are the bulk of the world's known oil reserves, with an estimated 700,000 barrels of oil being turned out daily, and virtually all of it going to the West. Control of Iran would both give Russia a needed oil supply, and cut off from a major political foe—the West—a supply of fuel.

Iran's strategic importance lies in her location along the Persian Gulf and the Gulf of Oman, gateways to the Arabian sea, and warm water ports. Both have been objectives of a power-hungry Russia ever since the days of Peter the Great.

Frustrated by Iran's pro-Western attitude, that makes these objectives impossible. Russia has turned anti-Iran. Radio Moscow broadcasts a daily course of anti-Teheran programs, a sure-fire indication that the Kremlin's eye might be preparing a possible whammy for the land of Iran.

Radio Moscow's siren voice frequently links Teheran, capital of Iran, with Washington, and these links are turned into sharp-pronged, anti-government attacks beamed into Iran's cities.

For example, when the sisters of the shah of Iran, Mohammed Reza Pohlevi, married an American, Radio Moscow intoned, "This is a shameless marriage" . . . disregarding national customs . . . and an instance where a ruler "offers the imperialist Americans his own sister."

Moscow Charges

Again, when Gen. Lawton Collins, United States Army chief of staff, visited Iran as part of this nation's program to aid countries seeking to ward off political communism, Radio Moscow chanted Teheran was giving Washington secret military bases and turning its oil well over to Wall street.

Moscow follows up its propaganda with official action. After the Collins visit, an official protest was made to the shah on grounds the Americans were establishing bases. Retorted the shah: "Tell it to the United Nations"; a reference to the UN action of 1946 when Russia failed to secure control over Iran.

However, the Soviets haven't stopped planning. It is said the Kremlin has instructed Marshal Bagramian, in charge of all Russian forces in the southern section of the land, to blueprint the invasion of Iran.

At the same time, Russian "Trojan-Horse" tactics have been stepped up. The Soviets have increased the Teheran embassy staff to over 200. Also, the Tudeh party is reported under control of Moscow's agents, and although the party has gone underground, it is putting out a pro-Russian weekly newspaper.

Early this year, the Soviets doubled their radio time alloted to Iran, with more than 10 hours a day being devoted to propaganda beamed to the 100,000 sets in Iran. The Russians stress the country's poverty, diseases, illiteracy; the plight of the workers who can not organize and the fact that the landlords and money lenders hold life-and-death power over tenants and debtors.

To offset Radio Moscow, Radio Teheran relays the Voice of America, but this is less than an hour a day; a highly unfavorable ratio.

Roundup 158 Hoodlums In New York City

NEW YORK, Oct. 26—(INS)—A police roundup landed 158 known hoodlums in the lineup Wednesday and threatened to bring additional thousands into the net to forestall the possible use of strong-arm methods in the city's bitter election campaign.

The roundup was demanded by acting Mayor Vincent R. Impellitteri who said he had received "alarming reports" of contemplated interference in the campaign.

Police Commissioner Thomas F. Murphy promised Impellitteri, a candidate in the stromy election race for mayor, to prevent the importation of "shady characters of election time" and to get rid of those now in the city.

Murphy emphasized the roundup would be a continuing affair that would go on for some time to come on a 24-hour basis.

Estimates at police headquarters were that a total of 200 to 300 hoodlums and other underworld fring characters would be in the net by the end of the day, and that a total of "thousands" might be reached before the roundup is called off.

Stalin To Help Get Out St. Louis Vote

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 26.—(INS)—Joe Stalin will help get out the vote in the St. Louis area.

The idea was thought up by Howard W. Frick, chairman of the 17th ward Democratic organization in St. Louis. Frick said today that thousands of posters with Stalin's picture and the hammer and sickle are being distributed.

They bear the "message":

"I need your support! Stay at home! Don't vote!"

Frick said he figured that no one in the 17th ward would be likely to support Stalin, so "I decided to put him to work."

HARVESTING NEAR END

HARRISBURG, Oct. 26.—(INS)—Pennsylvania farmers made rapid progress harvesting apples, potatoes and corn during last week's warm weather, the agriculture department reported today.

Late cabbage made excellent growth but supplies are now "burdensome" and prices low, the department said.

Italy is about the size of the state of New Mexico.

What Is Matter With Money?

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—(INS)—What, all of a sudden, is the matter with money, except that there isn't enough of it?

Why is it the fashion to knock moola and to give the back of the hand to such old-fashioned virtues as thrift and a penny-in-the-piggya-bank?

What's happened to this land of the free and home of the brave that mere possession of $20 in cash money is now prima facie evidence that the possessor would kick an orphan, rob a poor box and sell his own mother?

How has it come about that a man owns a house and lot at his own peril today and that possession of real estate is enough to give a man a bad name in any neighborhood?

Under what statute is it now a criminal offense to own a crease in one's pants, a few stocks and a smattering of bonds?

Since when has honest possession of coin of the realm transformed a solid citizen into a social bum and a moral leper?

In short, what's the matter with money, except there ain't enough of it?

Await Candidates Answer

If the candidates of each and every political party will kindly answer the above questions, I may find among the mess for whom I can conscientiously cast a vote come Nov. 7.

I have, heaven help me, listened to and read the speeches not only of the local and state candidates up for election next Tuesday in this state, but also of candidates throughout the nation.

One and all, they are agin sin, the man-eating shark and money. When Joe Hanley, Republican candidate for the United States senate in this state, went down to Wall Street and denounced it a few days ago, the GOP—heretofore the party of Wall Street—made a revolutionary about face and joined the pious throng that is opposed to a little scratch stashed away in the corner bank and a house and lot, mortgage-free.

Anyone who has been listening to or reading the floods of campaign oratory from both major parties has a crystal clear idea today of the ideal American citizen and voter, as described by the candidates.

Ideal Is Bum On Relief

This ideal citizen, this beau geste of voters, is obviously a bum on relief with the seat out of his pants and his hands in the public treasury. Conversely, a man with a little folding money in his pockets and a cash interest in a bungalow is regarded with more suspicion than blue beard after he was caught with the first body.

Papa always told us kids that if we grew up to be honest and honorable and laid away a little money in the bank every pay day, we could hold up our heads and look any man in the eye.

Darling Papa! How wrong he was! At any moment, I am in danger of being lead away to the jail house as the owner of a cash balance of $74.31 at the bank, a small farm in New Jersey, ten shares of Chrysler and a burning ambition to be a millionaire.

Listen to the candidates, fellow citizens, and wise up to the fact that nothing is so reprehensible as the man of property. "Who steals my purse steals trash" is a fine slogan for the man of 1950, because if a lead cent is found in it, the result will be a whispering campaign that can wreck a man's reputation.

Just Love Money

I am a sad sack myself, as I am too old to reform. I just love money, especially the folding kind. Nothing would make me happier than sole possession of a roll big enough to choke a percheron.

I just love what money can buy—a roof over the head, a little mink for the back, a snack of vittles for the table, a convertible for the garage, champagne for the slippers, a fighting army, an adequate navy, a big air corps, more marines, and freedom from fear of the collector of internal revenue.

Tell you what, the first candidate who comes out openly and endorses money, he's my boy. Gets my vote and no argument about it.

Tremett Tablets are a condensed food supplement designed to act 3 ways: (1) To help appease your hunger, to cut down your appetite automatically, yet you don't leave the table hungry: (2) They include nutritious elements to help maintain your energy while losing weight: (3) The Tremett eating regimen allows many foods, falsely labeled as "fattening" by many ordinary diets.

TAKE OFF FAT FIRST 8 DAYS OR NO COST

If your excess weight is caused by overeating (and not by a glandular condition), Tremett Tablets, taken as directed will reduce your weight first 8 days—or you pay nothing!

MAKE THIS 8-DAY TEST

Get a box of Tremett Tablets today, and use as directed. Check your weight before and after using Tremett Tablets. Your money back if not delighted with results.

Nurse Tells How to Reduce

"I've been overweight since childhood, and have experimented with many reducing programs. I find the Tremett Tablet plan the ideal reducing aid. It's less drastic, requires no starvation and it's safe because it contains no harmful drugs."

'Canes Meet Second Erie Opponent Friday Night

Erie Strong Vincent Big, But Boasts Poor Record

Erie Strong Vincent brings a big—but comparatively unsuccessfull—football team to Taggart Stadium Friday night to battle the Red Hurricanes in their final home encounter of the year.

The visiting Colonels from the Lake City have notched only two wins in seven attempts this season and were smeared 33-0 by Erie Prep their last time out.

On paper at the beginning of the season Strong Vincent looked like it might go someplace. Ellwood City put a kink in its plans right off the bat with a 20-7 win over the Colonels in the season's opener.

Vincent defeated Pittsburgh St. George in its second game, but then dropped successive encounters to Erie Academy, Johnstown and Erie Tech.

Two weeks ago the Colonels defeated Cleveland East Tech 19-6, with 220-pound fullback Alex Clemente smashing over for all three of the Erie scores.

Clemente is the visitor's biggest offensive weapon—both in size and ground gaining ability. Left halfback Ralph Barbaro aggravated a knee injury in the Prep game and will probably not see action Friday night. Quarterback Larry Raymond was also slightly injured in the Prep game but will probably be ready for the Canes.

Canes Nursing Injuries

Starting at left half for the Colonels will probably be a promising sophmore — Nick "Boopie" DiNicola. DiNicola shows signs of developing into a first rate passer and also is a good punter.

Standout on the Erie line is guard Carmen Bianco, 205-pound captain.

Mea while at New Castle high school practice sessions, the Canes heven't been knocking themselves out. Several of the boys are still nursing injuries from the Farrell and Erie Academy games and coaches have been content with light workouts.

Dante DeFalco and replacement Lee Richeal have both been on the sidelines throughout the week. DeFalco is still bothered with a broken finger, while Richeal suffered a shoulder injury in the Academy game.

Joe Cziszer and James Caputa heve been working out at the right tackle spot in practice sessions.

Lamorella Playing On Princeton 150 Pound And JV Teams

Vince Lamorella, former New Castle high school star, is seeing lots of action this year on Princeton's 150-pound team. He has made himself particularly valuable to the team through his excellent passing.

VINCE LAMORELLA

A member of the JV squad, Vince also plays on the 150-pound team as a halfback. He was on the Princeton Freshman team in 1949.

Lamorella was a member of the New Castle high school football team that copped the WPIAL championship in 1948, when it defeated Monongahela at Pitt stadium 43-14.

Ryba May Get Cardinal Job

Former Star In Line For Manager

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 26.—(INS)—Mike Ryba, former Cardinal and Boston Red Sox star and more recently manager of Louisville in the American Association, was mentioned today as a candidate for manager of the St. Louis Cardinals.

President Fred Saigh admits he conferred wtih Ryba about a job on Oct. 18. The Red Bird president will not say whether he discussed the Red Bird opening or another post in the Cardinal organization with Ryba.

Ryba played with the Cardinals as a pitcher, catcher and fielder between 1928 and 1940. He moved to Boston and later was named manager of the Red Sox' Scranton and Louisville farm clubs.

Ryba's Scranton club won the Eastern league pennant in 1949.

His Louisville team finished fifth in the American Association this year.

Ne-Ca-Hi Harriers At Ambridge Friday

New Castle High School's cross country team will travel to Ambridge Friday in an effort to get back onto the winning trail after suffering its first loss of the season last week.

The Bridgers are annually one of the top cross-country outfits in the WPIAL and are expected to be tough.

Philadelphia rightfielder Del Ennis is 25 years old.

Shaw Predicts Speedway Record Will Be Broken

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 26—(INS)—Wilbur Shaw, former auto racing driver and president of the Indianapolis Speedway, predicts that the field in next year's 500-mile race will be the fastes in history because of improvement in tire designs.

Shaw also forecast that the fastest racer in the 1950 race "may be too slow" to get into the 1951 classic and added:

"Maybe that's sticking my neck out a little too far, but I'm sure that the average qualification speed will be about three miles an hour faster than it was this year."

Grandelius Bothers Irish

How To Stop Everett Is Notre Dame Worry

CHICAGO, Oct. 26 — (INS) — Coming back for another assault on the thin blue line of Notre Dame is Michigan State's Everett Grandelius, a 195-pound back who has negotiated 578 yards this season, or more than Frank Leahy's entire array of backs has been able to make.

Grandelius has averaged 7.2 yards a carry and this, along with his grand total, places him along the top flight of the country's rushers.

This is truly an impressive record, but as the Irish dig in for Saturday's game, it is doubtful if what Grandelius has to offer is worrying them as much as what Indiana's Bobby Robertson had to offer last Saturday.

Remember 1949

If Grandelius can top Robertson's performance or even equal it, the Notre Dame squad will have to pick only nine men more when it gets around to the annual selection of an all-opponents team. Robertson and Grandelius will have made it by acclamation.

The Michigan State groundgaining genius was a member of last year's team which gave a much stronger Notre Dame outfit than 1950's such a stirring battle before conceding a 34 to 21 defeat. Grandelius was a most able performer in that game, although his individual effort was overshadowed by the tremendous game played by Lynn Chandnois, who did everything but help Athletic Director Ralph Young count the gate receipts.

Penn Star Back Out For Season

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 26—(INS)—Penn's football hopes were jolted today with the annuoncement that Dave Coulson, ace defensive and blocking back, will be out for the rest of the season with a broken wrist.

The 190-pound Johnstown, Pa., gridder, sustained a double fracture of the right wrist in scrimmage Tuesday. He didn't think the injury was serious at first, but X-rays showed otherwise yesterday.

Coach George Munger, prepping his boys for Saturday's tilt against an aroused Navy eleven, plans to double captain Francis (Reds) Bagnell's assignments to due the loss of Coulson.

Bagnell will divide his single wing duties between tailback and blocking back for the rest of the season, he announced.

Played Football With Kay Bell

Willie Ciccone, Bessemer football coach, played football with Kay Bell who wrestles Fred Von Schalk here tonight, at Columbus, in 1941. Both were in the American Football League. Columbus won the league championship. Later, Bell became a wrestler.

Schavilless Bessemer High Team Defends County B Crown Against Invading Shenango Wildcats

Shenango can throw the county B title spinning in three different directions tonight by beating Bessemer. The two teams square off in the Cement City at 8:00 p.m.

The Wildcats, already beaten by Union, can grab only a third of the championship by winning from Bessemer.

Both squads are plagued by injuries. Moore, Gagliana, the great Schaville, and Pezzuolo may be spectators for Bessemer. Wanatosky and Jermakourcz of Shenango have been described as ailing by coach Nahas.

If injuries do shelve Gagliana, Schaville, and, or Pezzulo, some part of the scoring punch of the Cementer attack will have been lost. This trio has tallied all but two of this season's touchdowns.

Bessemer, by stopping Johnny Allen, can virtually stop Shenango. Allen has had a hand in all but one of the Wildcat scoring plays this season.

The Shenango game will be the final home game for Bessemer seniors: Joe DeRosa, James Gagliana, Anthony Galletta, Donald Moore, Angelo Pezzuolo, Ralph Sainato, Francis Schaville, Donald Serjak, Tom Shuluga, and John Soldo.

Probable starting lineups:

Stockholders Meet Saturday

Al Scarazzo Calls For Baseball Action

Al Scarazzo, president of New Castle Citizens Baseball, Inc., has called for an important meeting of all stockholders and Board of Directors for Saturday night at King Humbert hall, on Division street, at 7:30 o'clock.

The matter of the 1951 season will be discussed, and some action taken regarding the Mid-Atlantic League meeting to be held at Butler, Sunday, October 29th.

Fast Six-Team Loop

Providing an auditor who is working on the books gets his report done in time, the financial statement for 1950 will be submitted at the meeting.

A fast six-team Mid-Atlantic League for 1951 is expected to be revealed at the Butler meeting with Erie, Oil City, Butler, Niagara Falls, Johnstown, and New Castle as members. Youngstown is dropping out to enter a higher league.

It is understood that Altoona is anxious to enter the league, but unless another town can be secured, will have to wait another year.

Army Accepts 'Whitey' Ford

Yankee Star Hurler Passes Physical

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—(INS)—The Army disclosed today that Ed (Whitey) Ford, 21-year-old Yankee pitcher, who won the final game of the World Series, has been found acceptable for induction and will leave for his basic training "in the near future."

An Army spokesman said that Ford will have a minimum of 21 days to take care of his personal affairs before he is called to active duty.

The former New York sandlotter was found acceptable for military service after he had undergone three examinations at Fort Jay to determine whether an intestinal infection would permit him to be inducted into service.

The young pitcher picked up the infection while barnstorming in Mexico two years ago.

Bombers To Meet Meadville Sunday At Titusville

Four Men, Four Girls On Tonight's Mat Calendar

JACK VANSKY

Addicts of sport, who possess a penchant for pro' wrestling, 1950 style, will crowd The Arena tonight, where at 8:30 the first of three matches, one of which will be an Australian tag exhibition between four girls, will be staged and long before the first bout is concluded, the grapplers are expected to have many spectators in hysteria.

The main bout of the Evening's Evenin' will be between Frederic Von Schalk, a sneering Milwaukee German, who stands six feet six inches tall, and balances the scales at 250 pounds. He is one of wrestling's biggest performers.

Bell vs. Von Schalk

His opponent will be Kay Bell, pronounced by many as an Adonis of the mat. Like Victor Mature whom Kay replaces when Victor faces a dangerous role in making a movie, Kay's form stands out as prominently, they report, as that of Hercules, known for his strength and tasks well done.

In his setto with Don Eagle, the "Injun" won. Von Schalk was aggressor insofar as rough tactics were concerned. One woman became so exasperated at the German-American, who wore close-cropped hair and bulging muscles she attacked him outside the ring.

Von Schalk Is Rough

The crowd vented its displeasure by a salvo of boohing and when Eagle threw him out of the ring, fans became hysterical with delight. Flying mares caused Von Schalk's downfall, the Indian finally pinning Vons' shoulders to the mat with a "death hold" in 33 minutes.

Kay and Von are to wrestle one hour to a decision or fall.

Two ruffians of the mat, Jack Vansky and Billy Weidner will grapple in the preliminary, and no doubt they'll "key up" the wrestling mob to a frenzy before the exhibition is long under way.

Four "Gals" In Brawl

But what the fans desire to see most is the Tag between four girls—all said to be exceptionally good looking of face and form. In fact, their press agent calls 'em a Foursome of Pulchritude, which according to Mr. Webster's dictionary, says is beauty, loveliness and grace.

The teams will be composed of June Byers and Ellen Olsen opposed to Mars Bennett and Cora Combs, all of whom may be beautiful and graceful, but if the last females match is a criterion, there will be little if any loveliness displayed.

In fact, when women invade a man's sport, they have to do something extraordinary to catch the eyes of men, plus dollars, hence they devote considerable of their wrestling time to rough antics, with emphasis on the rough. So folks, it appears as though hysteria will reign tonight.

Branch Rickey May Find Himself All Fouled Up In Baseball Law

By HOWARD SIGMAND
(I. N. S. Sports Writer)

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—Branch Rickey is supposed to pack his duffle bag with loot today and hit the road out of Brooklyn, but the old trader may find his sack loaded with nothing but money and promises.

Rickey is expected to step out of Dodger doings at a meeting of the club's board of directors. He will be replaced as president by Walter F. O'Malley, who along with Mrs. John L. Smith will buy up Rickey's 25 per cent stock and thereby gain control of the team.

May Be Victim

But this may not be all for the going-on 69-year-old Mahatma gifted with quaint talk, baseball genius and financial wizardry. Rickey may be the victim of his latest deal.

It is more than like that Fresco Thompson, Brooklyn farm director, will succeed El Brancho as general manager, thus opening the door for Rickey to take a similar post with the Pittsburgh Pirates, or any other job he has cooked up for himself in baseball.

But if the reports about Rickey's sale of stock to the O'Malley-Smith combine are correct, the flatbush squire will have to talk his way out of an entanglement to get another baseball job.

Not that the deal itself wasn't legal. It was, all the way. But the terms may cause trouble.

Time Payments

Rickey reportedly agreed to accept the approximately $1,050,000 spread out in payments over ten years.

Under baseball law "no club, or stockholder, or official of a club shall, directly or indirectly, own stock or have any financial interest in any other club in its league."

Rickey would have a "financial interest" in the Dodgers for the next ten years, and National League president Ford Frick and Commissioner A. B. Chandler would have to decide if he could join any other organization.

Chandler said he hadn't heard anything so couldn't say anything. Frick said he couldn't discuss the matter because he may have to make a ruling. O'Malley said it was Rickey's contract so he should do the talking.

Sees No Conflict

Rickey talked. "I see no conflict," he declared. "As far as I'm concerned I do not have any ownership or interest in any club right now. If these notes are not met, I'll retire instantly from any job. But I won't cross that river till I come to it."

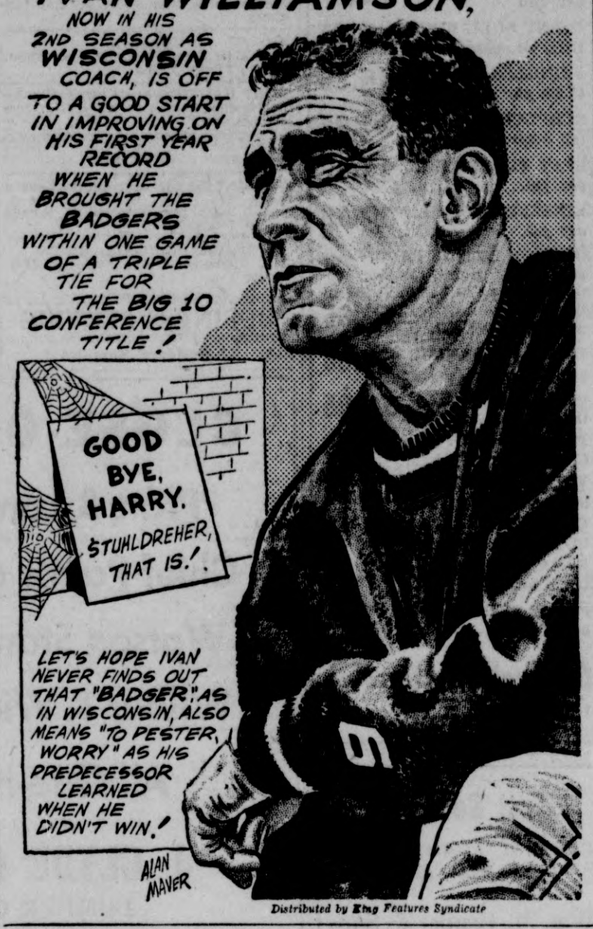

Originally, Rickey contracted to sell his stock to William Zeckendorf(wealthy New York realty man. But as stockholders, O'Malley and Mrs. Smith exercised their right of meeting Zeckendorf's bid and taking over Rickey's interests.

By doing so, they gained 5 per cent control of the club, since between them, they already had half the shares. The other 25 per cent is held by Mrs. Jim "Dearie" Mulvey, daughter of the late Steve McKeever.

Joe Geri, the Pittsburgh Steelers' soph sensation, has passed, punted and swivel-hipped his way into the pro football limelight, placing among the leaders in all three offensive departments.

Stanford University alumni reportedly told football coach Marchie Schwartz that his 1950 Indian team had to "win all the way—or else."

Favor Robinson To Defeat Olson, Retain State Title

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 26—(INS)—Ray (Sugar) Robinson and 22-year-old Bobo Olson collide tonight for the Pennsylvania middleweight title, and if records mean anything someone is likely to get his geography rearranged.

The two coma-producing windmills boast impressive knockout records.

Robinson, welterweight-middleweight titles' incumbent, has petrified 73 opponents in 120 bouts.

Honolulu challenger Olson has pineappled 32 of 52 for the count.

For the 30-year-old Robinson, tonight's 15-round title affair will be the 13th ring scrimmage of the year. Olson's first Eastern showing will be his sixth 1950 glove-up.

Expect Tough Fight

Optimism exudes from both combatants, both have trained at the Olympia Gym in Philadelphia, but not under each other's scrutiny.

Robinson said he expects a "real tough fight," but added that he is in "corking good shape."

Olson doesn't think the Sugar Kid packs the wallop of some he has beaten. Bobo said that "if Ray doesn't get on a bike, I think I can lay him out."

Bobo has impressed in recent workout, but the betting fraternity doesn't share his optimism. They have installed Robinson as a 3-1 favorite.

Ray will probably beam four pounds lighter than Olson, who expects to weigh in at 159, despite five miles of roadwork and eight rounds of boxing yesterday.

There will be no radio or television broadcast of tonight's festivities.

Bisons Assume Hockey Lead

Buffalo's battling Bisons took over as leaders of the eastern division of the American Hockey League today by virtue of a 5-1 win over the hapless Providence Reds.

The Bisons, who now have 12 points, are one point in front of the Hershey Bears, who dropped a 6-5 decision to Springfield in overtime.

Hornets Lose

St. Louis and Pittsburgh clashed in the only Western Division game last night, with the Missouri icers coming out on top, 2-0, to boost them to within two points of the leading Cleveland Barons.

Cleveland's pucksters battle the winless Indianapolis Caps tonight in an effort to extend their slim one-point lead over the second place Cincinnati Mohawks, who meet the Pittsburgh Hornets in the Ohio City tonight. The Barons have 11 points, the Mohawks 10.

In the only other game tonight, Providence plays at New Haven. Neither team has won a game yet this season.

Offer Appling Job At Memphis

ATLANTA, Oct. 26.—(INS)—Luke Appling, the veteran Chicago White Sox shortstop, insists that he is "still good for a couple of more years as an active player".

Appling returned to his Atlanta home last night after conferences at which the White Sox urged him to become manager of the Memphis Chicks of the Southern Association.

Appling said:

"I don't like to rush into things, and Chuck (Charles Comiskey) told me to take plenty of time and think over the Memphis offer."

He made it sound like a very hard decision. Luke said:

"Shucks, I'm still good for a couple of years more as an active player. Only time I never felt like playing was when I broke my leg.

"I just finished a 10-game barnstorming tour and was hitting the ball as good as ever."

Yankees Like Johnny Mize

NEW YORK, Oct. 26—(INS)—John Mize, the massive 37-year-old first baseman who "wasn't wanted" by the world champion New York Yankees on two different occasions last season, definitely fits into their plans for 1951.

General Manager George Weiss told Mize as much yesterday in a New York meeting. He said Mize will receive his contract along with the rest of the team.

Helped Win Flag

Mize said he believes the military draft has a lot to do with his being wanted for another season.

HERE and THERE IN SPORTS LAND

JOE McFATE, local attorney, recently fished in Georgian Bay, Canada. He hooked a 22-pound Muskie. However, because the season for taking 'em had expired, he returned the big fish to the bay. . . . Nick Casillo, local tutor and naturalist, told Here & There that ages ago the Slippery Rock creek extended to Lake Erie, and surmises that a tremendous eruption may have caused the Harlansburg caverns. . . . Universal Baseball team will spaghetti tonight at a Moravia street spot. Uniforms are to be turned in, according to Manager Huck Davis. . . . A group of Elks intend to see the Browns play at Cleveland Sunday. . . . Coaches Beynon and McClelland of Junior high schools here, told the Quarterback club they have some promising material for next year's Ne-Ca-Hi squad, but refused to make any prediction as to whether Washington or Franklin would win Saturday night. . . . Congratulations to the Janacones, Dick and Jim, who have been signed by the Chi-Cubs, for whom Paul Minner, New Wilmington bowling academy manager, twirls. . . . Union township Volunteer Firemen will hold a Lucky shoot Saturday night. . . . Wrestling fandom will have their second sight of feminists, clad in tights, rough each other up tonight in The Arena. . . . So far this year 97 deer have been killed in the Galeton, Pa., district by cars, most of them on Route 6 between Galeton and Benton Hill, according to Game Protector Max Ostrum. Five have been killed in Lawrence County, Cal Hooper, protector, reports. Four were killed by auto and one by a P.R.R. train north of Harbor bridge. . . . Ring Five, Veterans Boxers association, will hold a social time at Farrell tonight, at which Al Wolgast, ex-boxer and A.A.U. deputy commissioner, will preside. . . . Jim Hodge, the Harlansburg outdoorsman, reports hearing a fox bark for its mate in English's pasture field last week. . . . People persist in getting the Jerrys mixed. Frank Jerry is the toe and heel artist and Jerry Carangi is the dispenser. However, Carangi, in order to keep weight down, is thinking of taking some walks with Frank, whose stride walking, believe it or not, is faster than Lin Dilks go-as-you-please trot. . . . Al Grayber, ex-middleweight boxer, now a Pittsburgh city detective, visited Chief of local detectives W. G. Mullen recently. Inasmuch as McMullen served as a sparring mate to Dan Dailey, their discussion centered on boxing.

Graziano Meets Johnson Nov. 13

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 26.—(INS)—Honeychile Johnson's willing to admit Wednesday that former middleweight champion Rocky Graziano is "over the hill", but the Philadelphia battler isn't selling Graziano short nevertheless.

Rocky and Johnson are scheduled to exchange socks in the 10-round main event of promoter Herman Taylor's Nov. 13 card at Convention Hall in Philadelphia.

Plans New Strategy

For Johnson, the Graziano bout shapes up as the Philadelphia speed merchant's most important match.

To escape the dynamite packed in Rocky's fists, Honeychile said his plan of battle will be to outspeed and outmaneuver Graziano.

"I hope my speed will keep Rocky off balance and get him swinging like a gate," Johnson said.

A poll of managers and trainers in the Philadelphia area indicates that Johnson will be the favorite to defeat Rocky if the bout goes the limit.

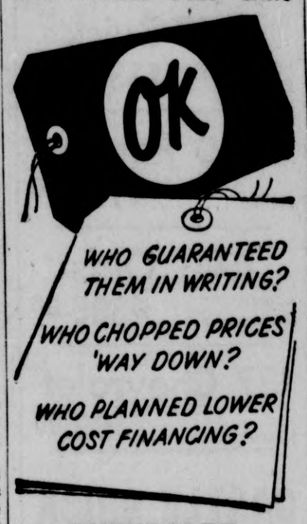

But if there's a knockout, Graziano is picked to fire the slumber punch.

Barrett Lost To Notre Dame

CHICAGO, Oct. 26.—(INS)—Notre Dame's skidding grid fortunes may take another jouncing Saturday when the Irish meet rough Michigan State minus the services of their best running back, Billy Barrett.

Charles Callahan, Notre Dame's publicity director, told Chicago football writers yesterday that an ankle injury will keep Barrett, who led the Irish offensive in early-season games with an average 6.1 yards a carry, on the bench for the rest of the fall.

The star halfback was hurt in the Tulane contest two weeks ago. If Notre Dame loses, this will be Frank Leahy's worst season as a collegiate head coach.

Court House

Sentence Court Hits New High

Seventeen Sentenced By Judge Braham

Sentence court on Wednesday hit a new high in the Lawrence County Court House. Seventeen offenders were before Judge W. Walter Braham, the court taking until a few minutes before noon.

Seven of the offenders were up for driving while under the influence of intoxicating liquor. This also is a new high. As far as any court house attache can remember there never was a sentence court with that many persons charged with drunken driving.

The sentences follow:

All of the following were up for driving while intoxicated and received identical sentences, $100 and costs and 30 days in the county jail. Out in three days if the fine and costs are paid.

David C. Walker, Joseph C. Wirtz, Stanley F. Gierard, Robert E. Vanazia, Robert C. Montgomery, Samuel Guntrum, Victor Longner.

Two numbers men were sentenced. Wendell Hallman was fined $500 and given six months in the county jail. Charles C. Brandon was fined $400 and costs and three months in the county jail, the jail sentence being suspended, upon payment of fine and costs.

Adolph Huffman up as a common law nuisance was given eight months in the Allegheny County Workhouse. Pete Filish was up for being a tramp. He was placed upon probabation for a year by Judge Braham and invited to get going.

John Faulkins, alias Ernest Travis, a soldier was up for larceny. Sentence was suspended pending the arrival of the provost marshall, who will return Faulkins to his base.

Roosevelt Chunn, assault and battery was assessed $50 and costs and placed upon probation for one year.

Anthony Equizi, operating a motor vehicle after suspension of license receiving a suspended sentence due to his pending induction into the Army.

Thomas Williams, burglary and receiving stolen goods, six months to two years in the Allegheny County Workhouse.

Two young men, Walter Horton and Eugene Morabito were before the court on a plea to burglarizing the summer cottages of Lester Hamburg and H. S. Sparling in Perry township along the Slippery Rock Creek.

They had taken guns, whiskey, beer and canned fruit from the cottages. Judge Braham lectured the youth severely telling them that cottage owners along the Slippery Rock were at the mercy of hoodlums and that it was up to the law to protect them.

"I could give you long sentences to the penitentiary for these crimes," said Judge Braham. "As it is I am fining Mr. Horton $150 and costs and Mr. Morabito $75 and costs and placing you both on two years probation. If you come before this court again you can be sentenced to prison without any further hearing."

The State Police solved the mystery of the cottage robberies after a long investigation. Judge Braham made it plain that he intends to deal severely with persons brought in for burglaries of such kind.

Six Survive Red Massacre Of U.S. Troops

By JOHN RICH
(I. N. S. War Correspondent)

PYONGYANG, Oct. 26.—Six more survivors of the North Korean communist massacre of American prisoners of war in a railroad tunnel north of Sunchon last Friday were rescued Wednesday after hiding four days and nights in the bitter cold of the Korean hills.

The ruthless Red captors killed 74 of the helpless prisoners.

Three of them were evacuated by air to Japan but the other three were too ill to be removed from the field hospital at the Pyongyang airfield.

The three flown to Japan were identified as Sgt. Robbie Bombery Long Beach, Calif.; Pfc. Joseph Monsczitz, Elkton, Md., and Pfc. Burdett Eggen of Roger Young Village, Los Angeles.

Identification of the three under treatment in the hospital was withheld.

All six, along with the others aboard the prison train, were lined up and machine gunned. Bombery was wounded in the left shoulder and foot but Eggen and Monsczitz escaped the hail of bullets although men on both sides of them were slain.

The six men fell to the ground and simulated death until the Red killers left and then crawled to a hiding place in the hills.

Weak from hunger and shivering from the cold, they finally were found by a 19-year-old Korean youth, Suh Dung Myong, who was a member of a party hunting communist stragglers.
